				Yes we really liked the Krystal Rose, ate there lots in December, and then again in March and also in June The sevice is wonderful, the airconditioning is a must and the steaks, better than even the world famous grain fed Alberta beef. I guess the beef comes from Veracruz. They had an amazing shimp salad in December but this was not on the menu in June, will have to talk to them about that when I learn more espanol!!!! The son in law of the owner, (Mague) spoke wonderful english and made a real great ceasar salad at the table, he has since moved on, hope he comes back for the season. I know this resturant is always on our list of favourties, and is reasonably priced. We also (being Kiwis) enjoyed I ate in Tugos last night and had a wonderful meal of ample portions. Surely with that many men, (aren't they afraid to ask directions) we could get good and lost..... We plan to leave Alberta around the beginning of November with our truck and 5th wheel travel trailer so if anyone wants to hook in with us let me know. I think the plan is to stay a couple of days in Yuma and then cross the border and head to Huatulco. We will take the pacific coast so far down and then cut inland. We plan to try and stay on the toll roads which I hear are pretty good. Oh what an adventure.....We did something similar 28 years ago. My husband told me a few weeks ago his whole extended family is planning to go away together after Christmas this year, and they've chosen Huatulco as a destination. Dang, don't I go away after Christmas to escape all these people?! Anyhow they are going to stay at the new Dreams resort and I'm so NOT a resort person.(will this resort even be finished by then?) 21053	12	Princesa_Laurie	Re: Driving directions?	Mapquest has some good street maps of Mexican cities but currently they don't have driving directions. In case you need them, the Mexico maps are at http://www.mapquest.com/mexico . Interesting route suggestion, but would not be my favorite. The "best route" depends a bit on what you are driving and what you want to see along the way, but there are really very few choices. I don't like LA traffic - hard on the nerves and gas consumption. If I was coming down I5 I would prefer to cut across the Mojave from Bakersfield to Needles, then straight south to join the freeway to Phoenix. If you can find a good way to Las Vegas (never done Vegas-Reno myself) then I15 and 93 are a nice drive to Phoenix. In Nogales make sure you take the freeway border crossing so you miss Nogales itself (west of the town). Once through the border and customs you need to stop about 20km south to The Laguna del Tule was open onto the ocean because there are several houses located in low areas next to the lagoon in the area of the La Candona which were flooded with lagoon water. 				A GLOBAL CALL TO ACTION DATE: JULY 24, 2008 THE CRISIS The crisis of global warming has suddenly moved from the indeterminate future to our immediate present. The current word from leading scientists is that the serious impacts from global warming are already bearing down upon us and will hit us with potentially incapacitating force within three to four years unless we respond decisively. The gravity of our situation has been detailed by James Hansen, Chief Scientist for NASA, who states in Science magazine that "if humanity wishes to preserve a planet similar to that on which civilization developed and to which life on Earth is adapted, paleoclimate evidence and ongoing climate change suggest that CO2 will need to be reduced from its current 385 ppm to at

21181	12 RGM	Re: gps with map of mexico	One thing I noticed that was different between my two vehicle imporations. When I imported my Jeep Sahara under the nationalization program they ran when Fox left office the Jeep had to pass an emission control test to qualify for plates, this was here in Cihuatlan not in Guadalajara. They ran the test when I went for the plates not when I paid the importation fee to Aduana so had it not passed I guess I would have had to bring it up to emission control standards to get plates or forfeit the importation fee I had already paid. The Jeep came from Vancouver where Air Care tests are a yearly requirement and it passed and I got my plates. When I imported my Mazda MX-6 - which I also brought from Called Quinta again this morning. Seems there was a misunderstanding. The regular bungalows are not available. They rent for $500 month. 				Hibiscus - Clearly you are not reading what I'm writing. Century 21 WERE involved with Hacienda Real as they tried to sell it to me. Members of staff are drinking buddies and if you are someone who buys property in a town at the end of a 7 day vacation well, it says it all really. Are you sure you don't work in the industry and want to perpetuate the situation? Your comments do not match the experiences of so many people who live in town. I haven't had a bad experience as I didn't buy nor would I. As I already stated, I lived there, for 18 months, and collected numerous stories from others that have bought during my time there.
21226	6	BritishSteve	Re: Lawyer needed	Believe me, my opinion is informed. Yours seems to be based on a 6 day Last January a friend flew TO to PV for Cdn$ 650.00 return taxes in for a 2 months stay. She caught the 4 pm ETN bus to Barra and had no problems going that route. Not a charter flight. It might cost you a few hundred dollars more for a Well for starters I never choose to get to Melaque - :-) - I choose Barra.	1150
21227	12	RGM	Re: Attention Canadians	Seriously though fast eddy makes a very good point. When I flew to Toronto to visit a friend and my brother and his family this past May I got a very cheap ticket (around $450 USD with tax) one-way from Guadalajara on Continental, I came home through Vancouver and San Francisco. Manzanillo to Toronto was going to be around $250 more at that time so I took the long route through Guadalajara. My flights were Guadalajara - Houston, Houston - Cleavland, Cleavland - Toronto (Pierson), this after the overnight ETN from Barra to GDL resulted in about 21 hours of travel time and I honestly found it a bit much. Was When I lived in Huatulco I took my cat there a couple of times. As far as I could tell he seemed to know what he was doing, and I had no complaints.	486
21228	12	Nan	Re: Attention Canadians	I never said buying property was sunshine and roses, I just mentioned that it wasn't all doom and gloom. I don't know any of the posters on here - I know real people, who have bought property in Huatulco and have not had much for trouble. Of course I'm happy because I made my purchase intelligently - it wasn't a spur of the moment decision. Vacation properties are not an impulse candy bar purchase in the checkout line. I know people who have bought property in Canada and the US and who have been 'taken for a ride' it doesn't matter where you buy you need to do your homework. And you need to be prepared to be married to stuff if the economy goes south (can anyone say recession?). I don't If any one can help. We are in Barra for christmas and have one person flying in at an odd time. I can fly into Puerto Vallarta arrive at 3:37p.m., and is there a bus that can be taken to Barra without staying the night. There is a 4:00 ETN bus however I do not think time allows it. Is there another bus or bus line? My other option is to fly into GuadalaJara and bus from there. The person has never I searched the month of November, with a 6 month return and found the following were the cheapest seats currently available, which are not available on all dates. Toronto - ZLO: $1096, 2 overnight flights and long layovers. Toronto - PVR: $ 833, via Houston. No tight connections, no long layovers. Detroit - ZLO: $ 846, via Houston. No tight connections, no long layovers. Detroit - PVR: $ 425, via Phoenix inbound and Dallas-Ft. Worth outbound. No tight connections, no long layovers. Arrives at 3:07 pm, so if you clear the airport by 4:00 you should be able to catch the First Class bus in Old Town. Of course with a $ 400+ I will be driving from AZ to Barra/Melaque arriving there September 1st. I will have some extra room. If you need anything from the States let me know; and I Perhaps if I knew my comments were going to be ripped apart I would have spent a few more minutes on them - I should have known better. We may have decided to purchase at the end of the 7 day vacation but it was not our first trip to a foreign country to look at property to purchase. We had looked in other areas of Mexico, the Dominican, Honduras, Belize - as I mentioned this was not a spur of the moment decision. Huatulco won out for a variety of reasons. 				If it were me I'd grab that Detroit ZLO now, is that taxes in for that price? In fact for winter travel I would book now if possible. The airlines are not even maintaining the flights that they have sold tickets for. Alaska have kindly informed me that they have nuked two of my flights on my next trip and put me on less convenient connections instead. Now instead of leaving PV at 4:30 and flying direct to San Francisco and then on to Vancouver for a 9:50 pm arrival I get to still leave PV at 4:30 but now I route through LAX and arrive in Vancouver at midnight, we must be going the long way. Then, for my return I was supposed to leave Vancouver at around 6:30 am and get into San Francisco at 9:15 am There are lots of buses from both places, not so many first class but I use the second class buses from Puerto Vallarta if they are the next south bound bus and I have always arrived safe and sound. I have the PV south bound schedule here http://www.seatosierra.com/where/tra_b1.html and I will be updating it mid to late September. I always use ETN from Guadalajara because the times always work for me and they have a nice waiting room at the bus station in Guadalajara - well nicer than the rest of the bus station anyway. From what I've read so far I noticed all the references are for the winter- There is a small store across the street from where you wait for the bus and they have had beer in the past. One more thing is to have a set of light comfortable clothes and shoes easily accessible in your bags to change into at the airport when you arrive so the walk to the highway is more comfortable. It is about a 5 minute walk (maybe less) and would be a hassle with a big bag without rollers. It can be done without rollers but is more of a hassle. Theoretically if there were too many bags a couple people could make two trips but then that is really getting into the hassle side of the equation. 				If you have a phone line where you will be vacationing and are willing to sign a contract and pay for internet service for (I think) a year then it is easy to get signed up for internet access with Telmex's Prodigy internet services. Since you will only be here four months it may be best to stay someplace with either WI-FI or ethernet connections available on site, or bring a lap top and go to an internet place with WI-FI. If you have already arranged to rent a place without available brueck, I think it depends. Are your bags checked all the way to HUX from Chicago? Or have they indicated that you HAVE to claim your bags in Mexico City? If Mexicana checks your bags to HUX, I think the clerk is correct (you can do both in HUX). If I were you, I would ask Mexicana several times (making sure Thank you for the info. The place we are looking to rent doesn't have internet, and we would really like to have it.Hopefully we can make some kind o arrangement.Do you know of some nice 2 bedroom with kitchen and internet Sorry, I don't know of anything but I am over in Barra and I don't know much about the rental market in Melaque. 				I hesitate to share this little secret, but I have ALWAYS been able to change ticketing in Mexico for free or a very nominal fee despite what the ticket said or what I was told in the US. On one trip I had a RT to Puerto Escondido, & we decided to spend the second week in Huatulco. To avoid the trip back to PE, I decided to see how much it would cost to fly to DF from Huatulco, & connect with my international flight there. With a little flirting & my commenting on the wedding ring of the lady serving me, telling her that I recognized it as an heirloom since I used to be in the jewelry business; the change was made completely gratis. Thanks RGM, I too have been looking and haven't been successful with verifying the North America maps. I only see the " Detailed map of the 50 United States, Puerto Rico, and Canada ". [IMG]http://i522.photobucket.com/albums/w349/jjjankovsky/rotary-club.gif[/IMG] The Costalegre Rotary Club continues to meet at Rooster's Restaurant every Wednesday morning at 9 AM, rain or shine. We currently have 26 members, and all are welcome at our meetings. In our first eight months we have been raising money and spending it in the area of schools, health care and the environment. We've helped from Barra de Navidad to Lazaro Cardenas and a few points in between. We have provided materials for a new school kitchen, rebuilt school kitchens, purchased sinks for school bathrooms, augmented classrooms with increased shade [so the kids can see their computer screens], and just the other day we purchased equipment for the health clinic in Barra. We also bought So if I wanted to put my six year old in school there(she's Canadian)...how does that work. What months are the school year there...and does anyone know how much it costs...or if it's possible to just put them in the public school system or would she have to attend a special school...I want her to learn Spanish but have the experience of grade 1...or whatever they have there.....all info appreciated.	122

The third is what is left of the wave action from sand washed from the lagoon. Right after the lagoon was opened the waves were about 100 yards out and larger. And I would definitely recommend the Los Indios crossing between Brownsville and McAllen as trouble free, I think the more you can avoid border towns like Matamoros and Reynosa the better. That being said, I wouldn't trailer the Gulf route. It's beautiful and as far as I can tell the most pleasant route, but Tampico to Veracruz is too many toques to want to deal with towing a trailer, just as Acapulco to Huatulco is the same. My friends I know of a young boy of nine years, who came to Huatulco last year. His parents put him in a local private school. This school has a really nice system. Half the school day every thing is taught in english and the other half in spanish. This boy, Robbie, did extremely well. He finished a whole year of school. He can now speak spanish. My opinion is that firstly when a child is in a new country, dealing with new culture, language etc, can all be intimidating. A nice combination like this is perfect for a child. 				The name of the beach is "Playa Dorado" which is approx 20 km "west" of Playa Azul. During the summer there are three helicopters that fly up and down the beach. The small one reportedly is the commander's personal rig and is smaller than the two troop carriers. Jesus my friend really doesn't know the "stature" of his particular scope of operations in the grand scheme of things. He told me that he thinks that it is large. The turtles here are definitely green colored. When a dead turtle washes ashore he checks head and limbs to see if perhaps it became ensnared in a shrimper's net. If the answer is yes, he hauls the carcass into Lazaro and lets the Dept of Pesca deal with the shrimpers. Jesus said that it Good idea. 				Hello. My name is Ricky Campbell. I am the owner of Ricky's Restaurant in Melaque. Pablo has an air condition shop in Santiago across the street from the dive shop. Last December I took my car in to have the vents cleaned. He kept my car for 2 months. Car was returned, air didnt work. I was told I needed a new compressor. This dragged on for another 4 months. I was charged $800 US for a new compressor. It didnt work either. That brings us to August. Last week I took my car somewhere else. I was told the compressor he installed in my car was from a small Ford, it was not compatible with my Jag and was installed	968

21716	5	Dave Robnett	Newbie looking for a rental	Here's the story There are actually two schools on the campus. Virginia Torres is the morning section and Juan Escutia is afternoon. Each section has a coopertiva of the parents and separate kitchens. Kind of strange but that's the way it is. The Juan Escutia section does not have enough support to get a new (or good used) stove. Each kitchen is rented out by the school to someone but there is not enough money in it without a varied menu which requires a stove. Friends and I bought a fridge and blenders for the school last year but this year we need wider support. Maybe the new Rotary can pick up on this or simply the

				It never ceases to amaze me the lengths this administration will go to in the support of big business; even if common sense tells you the result will be detrimental to the environment, & the will of the vast majority of people in this hemisphere. If you are a rich, self centered MF with no progeny to consider, I suppose such a position is at least understandable. But what gets me is the poor white trash on this board, & others with young families who are making less than $100,000/year; & yet they stridently support the penney rich, pound poor policies	911

				Hi Hermit, We have a kind of house/apartment in Puerto Angel. We are going in November and are considering leaving for a couple of months in January and Feb. It is in the El Faro community. It has a big livingroom/kitchen area and a bedroom with a bathroom. It also has a big palapa on top of it. It is up 2 stories and has great parking. We are looking for someone who will be responsible and clean to stay there for a few months. It is for sale but no one has made any moves to buy it and we assume it won't sell quickly so we would consider renting it furnished for a few months. It is very quiet and away from the main drag. It is Sorry Hermit I just tried to get into the information and you have to check casa sola too. Click on Huatulco to start and then click on see properties or catalogue and then put in the keywords El Faro and click casa sola. You may have to play Beware of over-valuing your rig. The USA "Surplus Line Broker" sometimes doesn't have a clue as to what a Mexican underwriter would actually settle for in the case of total loss. Back in the eighties I religiously insured a truck and trailer for a value of 2,500 dollars each. After nine years and no incidents I found out that their claims adjuster would not pay a dime because the units were not listed in the Blue Book. I paid twenty seven hundred dollars for no coverage. Thankfully nothing happened. Mexican Toll Roads are required by federal law to insure all motor vehicles that pay toll. I used to laugh until I read an account of a Oh great, a Tomzap party on Vancouver Island. A new place to fling your cigarette butts with drunk gringos singing "Wasted Again In Margaritaville". 				My daughter, a Mexican citizen, wants to purchase a vacation home in Huatulco. In time she will move here full time, but to start will be here part time and will rent it out when she is not here. We think we might have found the home we want, but need to find excellent lawyers, tax accountant, home inspector, title search/title insurance. We would want our contracts in English and Spanish. Other Questions: Is flooding at the beaches a problem (how far up does the water go during storms)? How slow is the Hughes satellite Internet? Are there small offices to rent in La Crucecita with Internet access? Is she decides to rent the home, is the rental market strong? (low vacancy) Dirt Roads navigable year Just FYI: ETN has suspended service from Barra to Puerto Vallarta starting Wednesday, August 27 until further notice - not enough people traveling. Yes sure, click on this link to go directly to the pics. and info.Check in the Rental Felt sorry for team Mexico. Hawaii was just too strong for them. Great A friend of mine has booked and paid for a ticket on ETN from PV to Barra on Thursday, September 4th. What other bus lines go from PV to Barra/Melaque at Howard: As a client of 'San Xavier', I asked for a response to the concerns about insurance company claim problems. I received this from Bob Acosta at San Xavier: I have been very upset for some time now with the way that Mapfre has been handling their claims. I have had many discussions with their management about the claims and in particular anyone who has contacted us with a problem claim. We have represented Tepeyac and now Mapfre Tepeyac now for over 35 years. Mapfre purchased a 49% share of Tepeyac about 15 years ago and the same Tepeyac owners stayed as the management. Everything stayed the same with great claims handling and a separate tourist auto department with the same management team we were used to dealing with and understood the difference what happens is...some police and other parties try to make a deal with you privately so there is less paper work. therefore you lose if the deal falls through. that is why you should let the adjuster take care of it from the start. been there Does anyone know where the bus runs to Tecoman from (Melaque or Barra), the amount of time it takes and the cost?? Thank you. Hi ScottM: I can see why Bob was unable to respond at the time, and it is nice to hear that he now represents a better company. He and his staff always tried to be helpful, but it is now clear their hands were tied. Dear nohans: I don't think we are speaking the same language. Letting the adjuster and the company appointed lawyers handle it got me nowhere except into debt with the storage If memory serves me correctly, there is a first class Primera Plus departing the central bus station in PVR for Melaque at 4:00 pm. Why not ask the pros who are more than willing to tell you what the tides should be and other good snorkel/dive possibilities. Check out www.gomanzanillo.com, Probably have to catch it from the new Manzanillo bus station. I'm not sure if they still use the old Manzanillo station for local buses but that would be painful You can't get a bus from Barra or Melaque to Tecoman that I know of but you can get a bus to Tecoman from Manzanillo. Take a bus from here to Manzanillo Central Camionero and you will find plenty of buses to Tecoman. There are two routes from Manzanillo to Tecoman, the freeway (cuota) and the old highway (libre). If you get a bus that runs on the cuota it should take about 45 minutes from Manzanillo if you get a bus that runs on the libre it will take longer - probably double that time at least as it will be a milk run that stops at every little town along the way. First class lines like La Linea or La Linea Plus, Primera Plus and Cihuatlan Plus will probably take the cuota, possibly also Sur de Jalisco, Actually, looking at the schedules I have here http://www.seatosierra.com/where/tra_b1.html Under Puerto Vallarta buses the Flecha Amarilla Counter - Servicios Coordinatos (Second Class Service) that There are frequent buses altho some may be milk-runs and take closer to 5 hours and not have air. 21959	12	sparks	Re: ETN Barra-Puerto Vallarta	It's possible that if ETN is using the same quality buses they run from Barra to Guad that people don't see the need to pay extra. I took a Primera Plus back from Guad that had better seats, movies worked and AIR was not out of control. The only reason to take an ETN to Guad is the route thru Colima and the airport Nan is completely bummed out. I was supposed to be on that Wednesday bus that has now been canceled ARRRRRRGHHHHHH. I didn't need to get a refund though because I had not purchased my ticket prior to the cancelation. I am sure that under the circumstances a refund won't be a problem, it is not like the client canceled. I have a 4:30 flight so lucky me I can take the 9:15 am Cihuatlan line "first class" bus and still be there in time for my flight. Hopefully the bus will be empty - I do so love those fully reclining with foot and leg rest reserved single seats on ETN when traveling alone. 				"Left behind by the U.S., Honduras turns to Chavez" Tue Aug 26, 2008 TEGUCIGALPA (Reuters) - Honduras, a longtime ally of the United States in Central America, says a lack of international support to tackle chronic poverty has forced it to seek aid from Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez. On Monday, Honduras joined the Bolivarian Alternative for the Americas, or ALBA, an alliance of leftist leaders in Latin America headed by Chavez, a staunch U.S. foe. President Manuel Zelaya, a logging magnate seen as a moderate liberal, told Reuters that oil-rich Venezuela's offer to double international aid to the country, one of the poorest in Latin America, is unrivaled. "I have been looking for a long time for someone to help us," Zelaya said. "Venezuela's offer is a lifeline."	19

One or two wouldn't be bad, but a bunch of them would ruin the beach in Melaque. I am sure that it is a great employment opportunity for you, but I would think most tourists would not like it. If we wanted Vallarta-style hotels/condos, we would go to Vallarta. I would much rather see this type of building go up in Barra, which already has a few larger buildings. As a tourist destination, you have to be careful about putting large some folk have crazy thoughts that realtors pump the craziness...even though there are are so many unsold lots and used houses in the area... if things are so attractive for growth here,...why are things going so slowly at playa de cocos??...that canadian event, playa grande, looks like a prison and hasn't proceeded very quickly for something that was said to be totally 'presold'... and what's up with all the for sale signs in barra on lots that don't really seem to be for sale?...just try to buy one of them...lots of the time the vacant lots just have a If you bring the Direct TV box and the dish It can be hooked up to work If you know someone with a RV or own a RV you can also choose to get the local LA or NEW YORK channels This is all against your Direct TV contract but everyone is doing it and I doubt that the Direct TV or Dish network pepople care just so

22064	6	hpo	Anyone guilty of having outdat	Hola todos, We were recently house sitting for a friend that went to visit his grandkids and we found that some of the water jugs(5 gallon bottles) had things floating in them. We called Aguatulco and asked them to come and see for themselves. Right away the manager came to the house and told us that you must drink your water within 20 days of the date listed around the neck of the bottle. The things floating in the water was not calcium. I believe these were parasites of some sort. Well, the water was from June. Seriously, outdated. My friend that I house sat for is a single guy and has 8 jugs at a time and I can only I agree with you Dante, nobody wants another Bucerias or Cabo here. I am also Canadian (go Habs) and have bounced around old Mexico places and moved on as they developed. There are two points to bring up here ... unfortunately growth in this area (Costalegre) is inevitable. Hopefully people will understand that it is not us (Coldwell Banker), or the Remaxes or Century 21's, or even other foreigners, with different business ie more Americanized restaurants and stores coming down here ruining the area with development. The Mexican government itself has targeted this area for development, developing the whole "Costalegre" concept as becoming the next Mexican Riviera. Take the new Starbucks in Melaque? In the near future? You must be joking. I assume you use them as a metaphor for foreign chains moving in - which will happen, as >>>> I have seen this happen before, even in tourist towns in Canada. The worst part for locals is that the cost of real estate will be driven up so much that they won't be able to afford to own property in the town that they grew up in. I could/can barely afford to live in Seattle or California when once it was easy. If all the locals need to move away from the beach to Jaluco, Pinal or Ranchito ... that's not the worst thing in the world Personally I think the business of Dry House brings up several valid points ... absolutely there are literally dozens of homes for sale, particularly in Barra for sale, some of them for at least 2 or 3 years that we know of, and absolutely this is because of overinflating values by unscrupulous "realtors". Reagrding Barra lots ... our office has tried to sell lots in Barra as well and when we contact the listing agent or company all of a sudden the lot has been sold or is not for sale any longer, even though the sign is still up. One company there has "sold" signs up all over town there. This is exactly the type of shenanigans I mentioned earlier. I don't believe that most of these lots are, or were, even for sale, just nothing more than advertising signs for Funny you should mention Starbucks... When I was in Bucerias in February, I overheard a 30-ish woman say that she wants to go back to Vallarta early (presumably they were taking the bus and flying from PV). This is what she said	1766

22070	6	cazba	Re: Considering a home purchase	Obviously Pedro you have not had any dealings with HPO and WIFE, I have, and I will set you straight on this one. When meeting and doing business with someone there is a saying out there that goes something like this..... "People do business with people they know and people they like and trust" When we met HPO and wife we got to know and like them and now have the trust to do business with them. I will say that the business dealings did not go in HPOs favour when dealing with us BUT... yes, he was at our door to take my husband fishing the next day, (at no cost to us) visited us during our stay, checking to see if we needed any thing at all, bought us fresh fish, and that he was there if we This is for Howard, not sure how these get placed here, I'm new at posting here. Anyway, yes I was using Starbucks not literally as you say. Here's something for you though... In 1991 I was living in Cabo, operating a small fishing tackle shop, and one of my Mexican friends, purchased the Subway franchise for Cabo for $20k I think. I told him he was nuts and said it would never fly. The day he opened it was packed and he sold it for a million bucks a year later and moved back to Mexico City. Within a couple of years MacDonalds, Dairy Queen, Burger I have been using my Nüvi350 for many 1000's of kilometres and just returned from a trip to Prince Edward Island in my friends vehicle. They were very impressed with it and NO ONE had any problems understanding the audio instructions, but of course one must also realize that there is no midjet hidden inside the GPS and the audio is created using " Text to Speech" recognition by a computer. It beats any printed maps of any flavor since it also allows you to instantly change your route to another one. We did run into a Hwy with a closed bridge on PEI and all I did was hit the detour button and we were worked around this using different and alternative roads to get to our destination. We were in some heavy fog and we knew exactly where we were and also knew the way the $250/day to a HOUSEKEEPER? Good lord that's absolutely hilarious! These are the same kinda people that come down to Huatulco & think that they need to tip $20 on a $60 cab ride from the airport to Puerto Escondido. These are the same kinda people who overpay $50,000-$100,000 on a Mexican villa built neither to withstand the severe Canadian winters, nor to meet strict Canadian construction codes, just because it SEEMS like a good deal comparatively. Compared to what? Compare the average annual income in the two countries. Why SHOULDN'T things cost less in Mexico, especially for inferior quality in most cases? Hell they don't even have central airco in the vast majority of housing in coastal Oaxaca, even though it's 90 degrees much of the year. Quality new Muchas Gracias HPO for the clarifications, biblical references, and veiled threats of having me drown. "No chains here. Oh yeah only the one tide (sic) to my feet. Who's going to push? We can go together Pedro. I can hold my breath for a long time, try me! My boat or yours?" While the lovely Mrs HPO wrote "If you were ever to drown and I was close by I would give you a helping hand. Now, my husband would let you go down for a while..." You are trying to sell real estate here, terrific, I applaud your entrepreneurial efforts however, my point is, again, there are no requirements, rules or regulations for realtors in Oaxaca. nada! The following quote from your email reinforces my theme about realtors here not I used Western Union recently to send money to Melaque. It was easy, fast and efficient. Last year I mailed a money order from Canada and it took over 3 weeks. Needless to say I wouldn't go that route again, always wondering if it hey myrna very intrested in the van isle tomzap party august is almost over has it been held or is it upcoming? dave in nanaimo	1968

				Arctic ice 'is at tipping point' By Richard Black Environment correspondent, BBC News website Scientists suggest the Arctic is already at a climatic "tipping point" Arctic sea ice has shrunk to the second smallest extent since satellite records began, US scientists have revealed. The National Snow and Ice Data Center (NSIDC) says that the ice-covered area has fallen below its 2005 level, which was the second lowest on record. Melting has occurred earlier in the year than usual, meaning that the iced area could become even smaller than last September, the lowest recorded. Researchers say the Arctic is now at a climatic "tipping point". "We could very well be in that quick slide downwards in terms of

				Going north to Phoenix we had more stops than coming back. 3 military check points besides all of the major cities. The soldiers try to earn the money that Uncle Sam pays them by checking everything at each stop. Returning, we left Phoenix at 9 and left Nogales on schedule at 1:30 p.m. The next stop was Mochis, 9 hours later. During that time we stopped twice (for a couple of minutes) for the driver to get a sandwich and a cup of coffee. That was one long haul. We didn't even enter into Hermosillo nor Guaymas. A little later I went to sleep and didn't wake up until 35 kms to Tepic. I know that we were scheduled to get diesel in Mazatlan, but I didn't see the city at all. Most stops were in the 5	80

And yet, for whatever reason, we let the local rumor mill with it's obvious agendas split us up and leave us divided. The game here is from a low level group, always talking down the content newcomer. Alot of animosity for us xpats with a life down here. It's how these small towns are, nothing new. We can't let the bitter few cause the luckier bunch to be at each others throats all the time. They laugh as we fight. WE should all be on a higher road from the get go, and not lower our level of thought to that of a mostly uneducated 3rd world society.	1900

Compare this with NYC-LA Ceiba(Roatan) $313 RT, NYC-GUA $350 The exact amount of time we will be running the tour for depends on how long the turtles stay nesting in sufficient numbers to justify the tour. This is normally until about February time. The tour will definately run from now until January and Agree, cannot find any decent airfares between US and Mexico. If so, that is a big difference. I've noticed minor to mid-level differences between the Mexicana and Click sites but nothing that major. It could be that Mexicana is "out" of their lowest/base fare and are only offering the more flexible fares. Click only offers the one fare, which is lower and more restrictive, than even Mexicanas base fare (correct me if I am wrong on that one but I seem to remember a larger change fee with Click compared to Mexicana). $500 is quite a bit for that flight for the amount I've seen lately on their site. With his pick of Alaska Gov. Sarah Palin as his running mate, he has shown a spectacular, even dangerous lack of judgment. In addition to her frightening lack of qualification to be vice president (much less president) of the United States, Palin is an evangelical, anti-choice, pro-gun, right-wing conservative who wants creationism taught in schools. 			ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. - Barack Obama isn't John McCain's only opponent. Sometimes McCain sounds like he's running almost as hard against President Bush and the Republican Party as he is against Obama, his Democratic rival for the White House. The GOP is guilty of indulging in a spending spree of taxpayers' money, McCain laments. They haven't solved huge problems such as the looming insolvency of Social Security and Medicare, passing on huge IOUs and perplexing issues to future generations instead of fixing them as they had promised. He doesn't name Bush but the implication is clear: It happened on his watch and he signed bills that made the deficit soar. "We began to value power over principle," McCain said in Colorado Springs, Colo. Some lawmakers turned

22521	12	art	Re: Need info on Starchoice F	installing star choice Do you really need hd dvr530(600.$)?have you got a hd I'm going to quit writing here due to the possible wrong message that I may generate. One of the most popular surfers here in Puerto escaped a kidnap attempt last Friday. He was chased by a late model white expedition at around 7pm, after receiving a phone call on his cell phone from a WOMAN who claimed to be a moviestar employee asking for his home address. A red sentra was also involved, with a woman who carried a walkie talkie. So this FF creep is just the type of idiot who could unknowingly (not caring probably either) help some spy guy look for targets. So the games are over for me. It's not worth what could possibly happen if someone thought I had a connection to money. Which I don't. thanks, Nan, what size dish do you have - and is it aimed at the 110 or 119 satellite? And, do you get HD? Maybe we should just try bringing our Dish equipment down and see how it works... yes, Art - we have HD TV's and yes, the DVR is a "better 1/2" requirement. We have a Starchoice account set up for RGM, Thanks for that info, never occurred to me to get a flashdrive. Actually I didn't know much about them till I read your post and went to the sites you gave. I think I will pick one up before I head out to Melaque. I do have one question for you...can pictures from my camera be downloaded to the USB drive? Then I I will be home Saturday and then I can answer those questions Elke, we get everything as far as I know but I have never seen a separate listing for HD - like Comcast have with the cable here in SF - and I have no clue which satellite This probably a bad idea but maybe it will be better to have a thread only about the U.S. election so as to not step on anybody else's toes. If anybody does not want to read about or write about politics then they don't have to come to the thread. Let's see if it can remain civil and only the facts. Yeah, sure. It would be fine to correct "untruths" but maybe name calling could be kept to a minimum. Ok I'll start: The Wall Street Journal: < http://online.wsj.com/article_print/SB122090791901411709.html > "At a rally today, Sen. McCain again asserted that Sen. Obama has requested nearly a Drill here drill now....Is it environmentally safe? I upgraded to the DVR530 about 1.5 or 2 years ago and there are no problems so far. I love recording and then eliminating the commercials as well as watching at my convenience. My daughter has had the same unit for 3 or near 4 years. It has burnt out 3 times. Because of her toddlers she keeps it in a closed cabinet so we suspect that it was over-heating. They installed a small fan and turn the receiver off when not in use which seems to have solved the problem for the last year.Starchoice replaced her unit for free each time, which is easy to do if you I have it with hd recording....cost a bit more but hd is like your there. Tropical storm something went by dragging a lot of moisture behind it. Rain and big waves for a couple days. Takes a lot more rain than this to be serious in Melaque, "the river" may still be nearly empty and Arroyo Seco has no water in The camera and flash drive will both look like hardrives on your computer. Just copy fotos from one to the other. That's assuming you have your laptop here ... If you have a USB drive, you might try loading it up with Portable apps. http://www.portableapps.com , nice group of apps in one download.	853

Just thought I would add that, thanks Nan, you are always full of information and also willing to share it readily. You are quite right Bill, you can use an ordinary USB flashdrive. But to do so you need to be somewhat computer savvy. You can download all sorts of programs from Portable Apps. 22609	12	jeff c	Re: HOUSE FOR RENT BEA	Very educational messages for those of us who only watch fox news. Thanx. Yes Eric, on a day like today, let's remember who was in charge & who ignored all the warnings & let 9/11 happen because they were already planning to invade Iraq (even though it's been proven Saddam had nothing to do with the 9/11 attack). And let's not forget that McCain graduated something like #684 (in the bottom 10% of his class), & had already crashed 4 planes by the time he wound up a POW in Nam. Would never even been in position to do that had not his grandfather been an admiral, & his dad a stting 4 star admiral at the time of his commission. Let's not forget that he & Palin lied about selling Alaska's atate jet on ebay for a profit, when in fact they sold it for a $600,000 loss to a broker after	1437

				This aint the U.S. and there are alot of people that dont want drug dealers in front of their homes! Neighbors are saying good riddence no matter what the reason! Forgery and document falsifying isnt considered a civil matter in the U.S. or anywhere else. Nabbing the person in question with drugs was just a bonus. Some posters want to make illegal substances appear to be the norm or the "in" thing. Nothing could be farther from the truth. Teaching the children the correct path to a healthy drug free life is important. Naturally that process begins at home. A good start would be decent parents without a "stash" hidden. 				Obama Modifies 'Yes We Can' Message To Exclude Puerto Escondido, Mexico Loser 'Yes We Can, Except Eric Soto,' Obama Says Obama tells supporters he still believes in an America where anything is possible, once we ditch that good-for-nothing Eric. Onion News Network: COLUMBIA, SC—In a nationally televised speech Friday, Democratic presidential candidate Barack Obama altered his vision of a unified America to exclude Puerto Escondido, Mexico loser Eric Soto. According to Obama, the 30 something Soto, who has lived with his parents intermittently since receiving his 1st surfboard and still does not have a credit card in his own name, no longer figures into the senator's long-term plan of rallying Americans from all walks of life around a common, higher purpose. I take some time off to tour the northern latitudes and the myth of "global warming" still exists here at tomzap in PE ? Let me tell you...again...the myth starts with an accurate observation: The amount of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere is rising. It is now about 360 parts per million, vs. 290 at the beginning of the 20th century, Reasonable estimates indicate that it may eventually rise as high as 600 parts per million. This rise may or may not be the result of human burning of coal, oil and natural gas...the Earth's oceans and land hold some 50 times as much carbon dioxide as is presently in the atmosphere, and movement between these reservoirs of carbon dioxide is poorly understood We would like to know if there are direct flights from Toronto or from Montreal to Manzanillo in Frb. or March, 2009? And if yes, what is the cost? I need a car in that city. Taxis will cost you a fortune. Your own vehicle in D.F. is a very good way to get around to all the cool malls, stores, Magic Mtn, movie theatres, good restaurants, ect. The road to aca is good enough to go 80 all the way, 3 1/2 hours later you'll feel the warm ocean breezes and thats always a fun part of the trip. Aca south, to puerto is better driven early in the day, to arrive earlier here and to get past the slightly sketchy Pinotepa area which is 2 1/2 to 3 You decide: a.. If you grow up in Hawaii, raised by your grandparents, you're "exotic, different." b.. Grow up in Alaska eating moose burgers, a quintessential American story. a.. In what respect, Charlie? What do you interpret it to be? Well, Charlie, that's tough. Is it the Bush doctrine that says you can go back on your promise to cut global emissions as soon as you take office? Or the one that says ignore PDBs that warn of an imminent attack on the United States? Perhaps you're speaking of the Bush doctrine of sticking the government's nose into private family health decisions? Or the one that says you can spy on any American at any time for any reason? 				Solar makes a lot of sense in a place like Puerto Escondido. I've been looking for quality batteries and inverters in the past years and now finally the products are available here. For batteries you need Deep Cycle special ones (car batteries will work but would not last long as they are not designed to withstand full discharge), inverters to convert the 12, 24 or 48 volt DC from the batteries to 110 VAC for your appliances need to be specially designed to have high efficiency otherwise you'll be losing a lot of power just in the conversion, the best brands turn off automatically when not being used to save more power. Of course a good designed system will let you run a back up power source (gas

23072	12	myrna	To Laptop or Not???	This may be a question that has already been addressed, but I know things change on an ongoing basis so will ask again. Is it safe to bring a laptop? Would it be best to stow a laptop in your checked luggage or take it in your carry-on? We haven't personally had a problem bringing a laptop down, but I keep hearing I bring mine. First time I put it into my checked bags. NEVER AGAIN!! Alaska Airlines lost my bags and I was very tense for a few days til AA found them. Of course my laptop had my banking information and more on it. Now I always carry-on. An added plus is I watch a DVD while being bored on the long flight. I've not heard of any airlines confiscating laptops. You need to open the lid and show it clearly to the TSA people at security. As to should you or should you not bring a laptop? Very nice to have it, and there's wi-fi almost everywhere, Skype is also very nice to have along on the trip. BUT, I truly miss the days in Melaque I took mine on vacation with me this summer. I had it as carry on for every flight. No one even looked at it when I cleared security at LAX on the way north. Coming back it wasn't checked on my Vancouver to San Francisco flight on Sept 6th either but on my San Francisco to LA flight on Sept 13 I was sent to secondary at the security check - but that had nothing to do with the computer. Everyone in the line up for the secondary screening had a foreign passport but not everyone had a lap top. They were just screening foreign passport holders that morning I guess. The cops came and hauled off four Peruvian nationals while I was being screened which might have had something to do with all hi This is Carolyn, Im posting on Geriandes code. I was supposedly in violation of all kinds of importation laws regarding the truck - BS! He saw the guera in the passenger seat is all, pulled us over because I didn't have on my seatbelt (ummmm, since when is that required in Mexico?). He said I was lacking a specific permiso, but for a fee he'd go ahead and get me that permiso so I didn't have to deal with getting my truck impounded temporarily. In the end no permiso was given, but he said to tell anyone that stopped us that Jimbo- I was just booking my flight MEX-PXM and checked both click and mexicana sites. Click shows it for about $475 and Mexican for about $725 (each way), but when you add taxes and fees and all for a round trip, it adds up exactly the same $2020ish. It seems like every time I've bought that ticket, it's been about US$200 round trip, so I was only surprised by the initial ticket prices being	142

				One of the carnies was Super Dave, or conehead. My second trip to Puerto in 87 I drove to Tulum with him in an old orange pinto with a caged Lacaucha and God knows what else, it was quite a trip. Hit a road block around Puerto Angel and he told the comandante that he was returning from a fishing trip, even pulled out some photos to show him of a big tuna. We made it to somewhere around Tuxtla and slept in that Pinto, then pushed on to Agua Azul, where we picked up a hitchhiker from New Hampshire. Spent a couple of nights at Palenque and headed to the coast, but broke down in Escarcega. Dave took that whole engine apart in that dusty town, and I think it turned out to be a dead battery after all. They kissed and made-up with each other and lived happily ever-after.....the I can hardly wait to move to Puerto so I can have this smuch free time to blog, blah, blog....No offense intended Farkum. Just Howard- What my stepdad tells me (he's Mexican) is that you should never pay more than 200 pesos per officer on the scene. He's refused to pay the 1000+ pesos that they 'request' on a few different occasions, telling them simply that it is too much money. Basically, reversing the situation, telling them, "I'll give you 100 pesos each, or you can take me to the precinct". It's always worked for him, sometimes with a bit more haggling, because the officer knows that if he takes you to his superior, that guy's gonna take the lion's share of the mordida. I've only been pulled over the one time, and the officer pretty much avoided talking to me after he complimented me on how well I speak and understand Spanish.	1211

This money would have no value other than the confidence of the people who used it. You can loan this money at interest and you control the amount of interest you charge. It follows that if you are lending money at interest, the money to pay that interest does not exist unless you print it, again, at interest. (It also follows that if you print more dollars, the ones in existence become worth less and less with each additional dollar you print. With these sweeping powers you can regulate the prosperity or poverty of all the people that use your money. This briefly describes the monster of Jekyll Island, the Just drove to Acapulco two weeks ago and there are still LOTS of topes. Someone counted them once and I think they said there were 150 topes. The drive took about 6 1/2 hours. Not too many places to stay enroute. One motel place in Jamiltepec right off the highway but that's only about 2 1/2 hours down the road. There is no "quota" road to Acapulco only the regular 2-lane road with donkeys, cows, people, topes, small towns, etc. Take it slow. Go all the way to Acapulco and at the airport exit, take the toll road to Mexico City. No problem. You can make it to Taxco easily in one day if you leave Puerto about 7:00a.m.	814

Back in the days before greed came to this country there were a people that lived in harmony with their cumulative wealth. They would have a party every three moons or so. At this party everyone would make gifts of all their possessions. Anyone's generosity was venerated and those who practiced this generosity were regarded as "in possession of a deeper understanding." In the world today we are collectively confronted by threats and they are never ending. I respectfully submit that these threats are manufactured as a feint to distract us from the magician's intention. What might that be? This is it's the metaphorical	911
23211	12	sparks	Re: driving time from Nogales	In another 10. Nice rhyme. I've used Intercom in Manzanillo for years now. They pay a much better exchange rate than my bank (Scotia Inverlat) in Manzanillo do and Intercom always have my deposits moved into my bank account in Manzanillo within two hours of leaving a cheque off with them. I have also found them to be really good for exchanging cash. I have only ever dealt with the Manzanillo office though so I can't comment on the Melaque office at all. The one time I tried to exchange about $2000 in US cash at Monex in the Commercial shopping mall in Manzanillo they didn't have enough cash on hand to be able to complete the transaction so they couldn't help me. They told me to come back in an hour or I agree with Sparks - exactly what we did about three weeks ago. Pulling a unit you might even consider stopping in Guyabitos between Tepic and Melaque (I know, they do look close together but the Tepic-Melaque run is the toughest part I nationalized two vehicles, myself, before I was a Mexican citizen. I had an FM3 when I nationalized both. I did my Canadian plated Mazda MX-6 in 2000 when Zedillo left power and Fox came in and I did my Canadian plated Jeep Sahara in 2006 when Fox left power and Calderon came in. They seem to run nationalization programs every time a president leaves office but since Calderon won't be leaving office until 2012 that is probably not a plan for you. Between programs I contacted Aduana in D.F. about permanently importing the Jeep and I received a reply telling me to use a customs broker and to make an application There is a link to the Banjercito site here in column two on my Travel to the Area by vehicle page http://www.seatosierra.com/where/tra_c1.html Their site explains everything you need to obtain the permit and also provides a link to pre-register for the permit. In fact my grandson had his when he was 3 so he could come down and visit with us one year. Your tetanus is good for 10 years and I never thought of typhoid before just now! Your tetanus is free via your public health nurse and the twinrix is about 75.00 in BC, you order it with a prescription from your doctor and when it comes in you take it to him and he shoots you with it. I believe the only way to know 100% if it worked is for blood work to be done but we had ours 5 years ago and I don't know those hotels but www.tripadvisor.com may have some useful reviews. There are also message forums there specific to Mexico City. Good luck with a car in the city, a simple trip that may look like it takes 10 minutes may end up taking an hour or more by car. I'm pretty sure that rentals are also subject to driving restrictions during high-pollution days. The car will be useful to Yes, that's the first time I heard the CORRECT way to deal with the transits in D.F. First off, YES seatbelts for EACH passenger are required by law. Tinted windows are a NO NO. If you notice a traffic person while you are approaching a signal, don't look directly at him, and just keep going regardless of what his whistle sounds like. Ignore the transit police, you'll save a lot of money. Sometimes they may attempt to give chase in a taxi, so pay attention to your rear view. The worst is when you already stopped at a signal, they love that, they approach and point you to the curb. When the light changes, just go, go and bust a turn and then another. Believe me, you'll be glad you did, and it's Buzzard's option was a good one and I know people that have gone that way with a loaded trailer. Hola Amigos del Sud Having spent numerous years in and around the Manzanillo area of Mexico, I often wondered why it was not possible (or, at the very least, extremely difficult) to purchase a good quality gas barbecue. After all, Mexico offers close to 365 days a year of perfect grilling weather, and many people spend months at a time enjoying the balmy conditions and warm hospitality of the Mexican people. In February of 2008, my wife and I opened the Weber™ BBQ store in Manzanillo, Colima. Our longer term goal is to open other locations to service the fine folks who winter out on the Pacific coast of Mexico, but, one place at a time. It is difficult to dispute the quality of workmanship and Hi, we have done all three routes, the Guadalajara route is by far the best. We try to go through Guadalajara on a Sunday morning, much quieter. Last time we were late around noon, it was busier but still not bad. We arrived in Manzanillo in the dark, that was January so just time it so you reach Melaque in the light or Beginning in December, there will be an Art & Crafts Fair every other Sunday from 1-4PM in Barra near the Church. 				Clinton on Larry King (CNN)... Man that guy is one smooth talker...but seemed to stumble a bit "supporting" Obama. Could it be sour grapes over Hilary? Clinton reminded me that anyone that cannot speak/write with respect for either candidate and decide for themselves based on facts instead of regurgitating party politics is hurting America. He has such a polished way of complimenting McCain, but respectfully disagreeing with his politics. United we can overcome anything, divided we are doomed to follow the Roman Empire's foot steps. 				The McBush campaign has let Sarah Palin be interviewed by Katie Couric on CBS News. They have two five minute videos up at CBS <http://www.cbsnews.com/stories/2008/09/24/eveningnews/main4476173.shtml>. Things didn't go as well as they did on or the Hannity infomercial. In part one, when Katie Couric asks her to name specific steps McCain has taken with regard to pushing for more regulation, Palin is stumped and says she's gonna have to get back to her. In part two Palin tries to defend the foreign policy "experience" she gleaned from being Governor of a state that's close to Russia. Ummmmm... ah...didn't go so well.

The Birk Economic Recovery PLan Hi Pals, I'm against the $85,000,000,000.00 bailout of AIG. Instead, I'm in favor of giving $85,000,000,000 to America in a 'We Deserve It Dividend'. To make the math simple, let's assume there are 200,000,000 bon-a-fide U.S. Citizens 18+. Our population is about 301,000,000 +/- counting every man, woman and child. So 200,000,000 might be a fair stab at adults 18 and up.. So divide 200 million adults 18+ into $85 billion that equals $425,000.00. My plan is to give $425,000 to every person 18+ as a 'We Deserve It Dividend'. Of course, it would NOT be tax free. So let's assume a tax rate of	142

I had a bit of luck with heron shots in July on the laguna. When I come down permanently next year, I would like to talk with you about some of your favorite shot haunts -- if you are willing to share. I am copying off this information. I am going to make the same trip in April -- if I bring the car down. Steve http://steveinmexico.blogspot.com/ Thanks Dan & Red. - I appreciate any tips I can get. I do know how bad traffic is in Mexico, although the DF is one place I haven't driven yet. That's why we have a VERY loose schedule. We're also going to the coast for another 4 days, and it works out cheaper to rent the car +insurance + toll roads then the cost of bus tickets and taxis, surprisingly enough. So, I figured now is as good a time as As Obama said: John's RIGHT! Hola Mexico Max, (Federico), como esta? Greetings from beautiful Melaque, Villa Obregon!! 				Nobody can be wrong about EVERYTHING, L.T. Especially when you flip flop several times in the same week as McCain did this past week. He's been on more sides of different issues than I even thought existed. As for doing the math on the post by offtheradar, it has nothing to do with whether or not you include minors. Don't be intimidated by all the zeros. Starting with $85,000,000,000 & 200,000,000 people; cross out an equal eight zeros on both the numerator & the denominator, & you're left with the much easier to envision math problem of Damn! We had a freak one day 6 foot swell, so I missed the election debate. Shucks! We made it home after dark and the darn argument was over. The For those still trying to decide: Obama: 1. wants to get our of Iraq(which has largely been a huge waste of money) 2. Is a much better speaker 3. Seems more concerned about our huge debt McCain: 1. Has more experience 2. Does have a history of bucking politics as usual 3.Is more open to shrinking the size of government Right now, I give McCain the edge because I am very afraid of a LT, that sounds gracious on Barack's part, the words of a UNITER who's unafraid to give his opponent a little credit. But it's pretty clear that people on this board who are wedded to rightwing cant, care more about that old bruise of hatred in their hearts. They don't think about issues, cuz only one issue really matters. Forget uniting--they have contempt for anyone not as white and selfish as them. We've seen this pattern ever since 911, ever since Jim Crow... McCain's past is a garbage dump of divisiveness and backstabbing. Before he got nominated, you'd find a wide spectrum of people from his OWN party who'd grown to dislike and distrust him greatly. He's been a lazy, arrogant military brat

From the Medical Services Plan Website: http://www.health.gov.bc.ca/msp/infoben/leavingbc.html#absence You should be aware that your provincial coverage may not pay for all the health care costs you may incur outside the province, and the difference can be substantial. For example, B.C. pays $75 (Cdn) a day for emergency in-patient hospital care, while the average cost in the U.S. often exceeds $1000 (US) a day, and can be as high as $10,000 (US) a day in intensive care. For this reason, you are strongly advised to purchase additional health insurance from a private insurer before you leave the province, whether you are going to another part of Canada	1091

				Dry House/Myrna - The plants he gave me are heliconias and are now about 5 ft tall. There was one other, smaller one, but that one hadn't bloomed before I left last month, so I don't know what type it is. A friend's gardener brought over a Bird of Paradise (Strelitzia) plant, very small. As soon as these are spreading out some more, I'll be happy to share them as well. I'm bringing down sage, chive, garlic chive, lemon thyme and french tarragon plants from our garden in PAUL KRUGMAN of the NYT is one of the best economic analysts around. McCain scares the bejeezis out of him: "...The bailout plan released yesterday is a lot better than the proposal Henry Paulson first put out — sufficiently so to be worth passing. But it's not what you'd actually call a good plan, and it won't end the crisis. The odds are that the next president will have to deal with some major financial emergencies. So what do we know about the readiness of the two men most likely to end up taking that call? Well, Barack Obama seems well informed and sensible about matters economic and financial. John McCain, on the other hand, scares me. About Mr. Obama: it's a shame that he didn't show more. Since we drive down from Ontario, we buy short term emergency travel health from "Liason" (an American supplier).. just for the time in the US. For your security, it can be purchased through a Canadian supplier; "Pucher Insurance" in Ontario, or simply online. When in Mexico, we rely on "Medjet Assist" (Medevaqa in Canada). This is our preferred alternative to 'Skymed'. Skymed has a clause in it's policy that is not an issue with Medjet. The emergency evac is about $475 for my wife and I. Years ago you could bypass Immigration in MEX, and do it in Huatulco or Puerto Escondido. Not any more (although you could bypass MEX Immigration now, it's not recommended because you'd get caught by one of checkpoints you have to go through to get to your connecting flight). After Immigration (downstairs level of the airport), if you want to go upstairs to your connecting flight gate, or to Gate B, take a quick left turn after exiting Immigration, and follow the ramp upstairs. You'll go through a checkpoint where they look at your passport, connecting flight info, and put your carry-on through an X-ray machine. There's a	338

				< http://blogs.wsj.com/washwire/2008/09/29/mccain-calling-the-shots/ > John McCain celebrated his own role in the final federal government bailout package Monday on stage in front of several hundred Ohioans gathered for a campaign rally. "I believe that inaction was not an option," the Republican presidential candidate said. "I put my campaign on hold for a couple of days last week." (caught caught) To applause, he continued: "I know that many of you have noticed it's not my style to simply phone it in." That sentiment — not "phoning it in" was the campaign line throughout the weekend. On Friday at the first presidential debate, close McCain confidante Sen. Lindsey Graham praised Bottom line: House Republicans voted 2-1 against this bill which started out as a three page Paulson proviso making him Czar. Bipartisan negotiations turned it into a 100 page bill with oversights, accountability, & reviewability. Perhaps we can conclude that the Republicans didn't WANT that? It boggles the mind that they are trying to spin this as the Democrats' fault for not voting 100% in favor of it even though a majority did so. Remember it was a Republican proposal in the first place. Had the House GOP not broken ranks with the president & simply voted 50/50% in favor, it would have passed. But they chose politics over their I don't know but you had me looking at my spanish dictionary to see what you were talking about haha buenos dias art

Neither candidate is bringing light to the real issue of our malady; namely usury and monetary manipulation by the owners of the privately owned Federal Reserve Board. The reason is, they are all owned and operate on the direction of the owners of the Federal Reserve Board. You can cut and paste anything you want, you can call each other stupid, foolish, ignorant or other divisive adjectives, it don't change squat! Until we all get educated about what the real problem is, it will continue to control us: our wealth I don't know if it's in your price range, but, we often stay at the Calinda Geneve in the Zona Rosa. It has always been less than 100 dollars a night. I don't remember if they have their own parking as I just cab it when I'm there. Anyway, I liked the location. Some of the rooms have been beautifully upgraded. I'm Julie, La Condessa is relatively near the city center (just off circuito interior). Pretty much any taxi or concierge will know how to get to this area. I think Frank may have used "Bohemian" to describe the feel not necessarily the origins of the Colonia. Although it could have Bohemian origins...sparked my curiosity and I will research a bit. La Condessa, IMHO, is the "coolest" area of DF. Lots of great $1600 divided by 5.5 working days gives $290/day...divided by $3.50(US) gives 8.3 hours of work in a day... now, take out the hour for breakfast at 10AM...and the long hour at 2PM for lunch...and your workers are around the site for 10.5 hours if they work eight, or your cost per hour goes to about $46 pesos... most of the actual albanieles have a partner peon and the good ones stay pretty busy, even in the off season, so contractors, engineers, and architects start using out of town talent or less skilled masons...whacking brush and digging trenches until somebody asks, "...you wanna be the brick guy today??" good grass whackers/fence builders cost from $120 to $160 pesos for their day in the Scott, Yes that was for $1600 pesos each. I took an adventure tour through Thailand once, and part of the trek was a 2 day ride on a rice barge down a river towards Bangkok. After settling in on the rice barge and getting ready for cocktail hour, I noticed some commotion coming from some of the other travelers. Suddenly, the guides leap into action, and although I don't understand more than a few words of Thai, I catch a look of what they are obviously very concerned about. All of the guides have whipped off a flip-flop and are now hunting a very menacing looking spider. The body of the spider was about the size of a 10 peso coin and the legs were thin and quite long, perhaps 4 inches each, it's body was shiny black and on its back was an The Euro. However much you want to believe ALL currencies are poison, they were created so that people didn't have to barter & trade hard commodities. As things stand, the Euro is currently much stronger than the dollar, & the preferred Funny who was first to respond to this last query, LOL! As for MiSol's post, I have a photo of what I believe to be the same type of spider that we took in Bali at a temple site. It has a shiny black exoskeleton, & including the legs is about the size of your outstretched hand. Biggest tarantula I ever saw was crossing the highway in Sonora. At first we thought it was a pot hole, but it was moving. Parisina is found in downtown. It is pretty much straight infront of the big blue sailfish in the arches. It is easy to miss but just look in the shops under the arches and you will find it. There is a new multi-story car park a block away which makes parking easy too. 				Here is what I have seen and what I have experienced and the theory. This is in Puerto Escondido which should be about the same. They are both about the same latitude I think (Puerto is a little further north so the size of the dish probably is more critical in Huatulco). I have seen the little Canadian satellite dishes. People are using them. My neighbor has one and others are using them as well. Direct TV I am 99.9% sure needs a bigger dish (I needed a bigger dish for my DirecTV). Dish TV needs a bigger dish too. At least my Dish TV needs a bigger dish) Why? Because while the satellite does sit on the equator the signal is "pointed" toward the United States and Canada. The area that the signal Sounds to me like this Garmin GPS takes all the fun out of things but that is me. I am sure that for the less adventurous traveler they are marvelous little devices and Lindao posted that she likes to have one because it gives her something to do while the other person drives - which makes sense too. We use GPS on the boats, probably more to mark where fish are caught than for navigation though. Although there are not a lot of land marks once you get more than 7 miles out to sea a compass does work just fine out at sea. This post leads me to wonder something though. McCain prone to mishaps as Navy pilot: report Published: Monday October 6, 2008 US presidential hopeful John McCain was prone to mistakes during his time as a Navy pilot, and if today's standards were applied, his career may have ended in a hard landing, according to a report Monday by The Los Angeles Times. The newspaper said that when McCain was training in his AD-6 Skyraider in Texas in 1960, he slammed into Corpus Christi Bay and sheared the skin off his plane's wings. In his autobiography, McCain said the crash had occurred because "the engine quit," but an investigation That is sad news. 				Rolling Stone article on McCain Part 2: Although he now crusades against wasteful military spending, McCain had no qualms about secretly lobbying for a pork project that would pay for a dozen Bridges to Nowhere. "He did a lot of stuff behind the back of the secretary of the Navy," one lobbyist told Timberg. Working his Senate connections, McCain managed to include a replacement for the Midway in the defense authorization bill in 1978. Carter, standing firm, vetoed the entire spending bill to kill the carrier. When an attempt to override the veto fell through, however, McCain and his lobbyist friends didn't give up the fight. The following year, Congress once again approved funding for the carrier. Shipping and tax from Canada? David Duprey or is it Ronald Steve or Steve Ronald I see it is used both ways.

That much is obvious to anyone who has been watching her performance over the last week. Many Alaskans have watched, sickened, at Palin's insinuations, before cheering crowds, that Senator Obama is a terrorist sympathizer. Others, have agreed. She stands in the glow of the lights, soaking up the energy from a crowd, whipped into a frenzy of hatred, engendering comparisons to a Nazi rally or a KKK meeting. 				Well LT, then let's talk about Palin & her husband's association with a political party that promotes Alaska seceding from the US- violently if necessary. Let's talk about what the leaders of this party have said about their hatred of the US, & Palin's praise of those leaders. And let's talk about the Keating Five. And let's talk about McCain being on the board of organizations run by rabid anti zionists, racists, bigots, et al. Let's talk about Palin fomenting death threats to Obama at her rallies, & doing absolutely nothing to squelch them when they not surprisingly manifest themselves. Fear is all that Palin/ McCain have left.

Possibly some place where they speak a little yeah, don't forget what happened to the original Ozmandius.... read his words Obama is a security risk. And YOU have yet to demonstrate otherwise. Listen to PB saying he fortd the crisis too. LOL So, are you admitting to have always understood what Clinton was going to cause down the line? Or do you choose to I am returning to Oaxaca for the first time in 30 yrs (wow...that sounds like a long time!) I am looking for a clean and quiet place. Near the zocalo would be nice. Any suggestions in the under $500 peso price range? Any feedback about Las Hounddog, Like I said Im a busy kinda guy unlike some internet artists. But to clarify one point, Obama attended his Comrade Wrights church for 20 years, Comrade Wright married Hussein and Michelle and later baptized their kids! That nutty lunatic also inspired your posterboy Obama to write a book! At the last moment somebody on team Obama realized (how clever) that Comrade Jeremiah was too radical for any sane voter and quickly disassociated the two of them. Damage control a big O! Now what else do you need to show association? I know it is listed somewhere but I can't find it Any one PLEASE. Canadian currency has been overvalued for quite some time. L.T.? I doubt it is listed anyplace. I called and the January International tourney is The Bubbas', though diminishing in numbers will still cast aspersions and votes... (hey Bubba, the voting booth is private... you can make your OWN choice and the other Bubbas' will be none the wiser). I think 'Obamaloid 5' is a great name for a band but 'The O'Bamahans' sounds much cooler. I'm already in Are you now adding international banking to your resume, L.T.? Can you tell who the sore losers are on this board, LOL? WHY is Obama "a security risk", Eric? I always thought the burden of proof was on the accuser. Yet in this race there is so much mud being thrown by the "I'm not a republican" types, it seems that, in the minds of the far right at least, the onus falls on the accused to prove his accusers, however vapid, wrong. Do you think that you can If you are really interested in Fishing Go to Peurto Angelito and get hold of Omar Ramirez who is our only fishing guide ever....Anything else you want in PE go to Omar..All leads all interests Omar will have an answer... 				Global warming threatens tropics WASHINGTON (AP) -- If you can't stand global warming, get out of the tropics. "Many lowland tropical species could be in trouble," a team of researchers said. While the most significant harm from climate change so far has been in the polar regions, tropical plants and animals may face an even greater threat, say scientists who studied conditions in Costa Rica. "Many lowland tropical species could be in trouble," the team of researchers, led by Robert K. Colwell of the University of Connecticut, warns in Friday's edition of the journal Science. "The tropics, in the popular view, are already hot, so how could global warming harm tropical species? We hope to

				I found the bypass road today when I was walking. Will check it out further on my bicycle. While I was walking a couple of dump trucks loaded with sand passed me going towards the big puddles. I thought they might dump some sand into them, but they moved on towards Barra, passing a late-model, full-sized pickup that was stalled in the middle of the big puddle. The water had killed his engine. He had stayed on the north side of the big puddle and I think that's the deepest side. I've been watching for snakes on the ground -- I didn't think to look up! Have you ever spent time and really thought about it? Let's take foreclosures for example. There are a huge amount of homes being foreclosed on. How can so many people be thrown out of their houses? These poor people. But it is much more complicated than that. When the Republican loan originators gave away loans to anybody who showed up in their office a lot of the people were speculators. They bought 2-3-4-6-10 and more houses hoping to resell them at a higher price within months. When the meltdown started well over a year ago these people could not sell these houses. 				This is what you won't read on right wing web sites or watch on Fox News. Acorn verifies the legitimacy of every registration its canvassers collect. If they can't authenticate the registration, or it's incomplete or questionable in other ways, they flag that form as problematic ("fraudulent", "incomplete", et cetera). They then hand in all registration forms, even the problematic ones, to elections officials, as they are required to do by law. In almost every case where you've heard about fraud by Acorn, it's because Acorn itself notified officials about the fraud that's been perpetrated on them by rogue canvassers. Most officials who run to the media screaming "Acorn is committing fraud" know all of the above. Could anyone enlighten the forum as why the Jardin Real/Split Coconut refers to itself in advertisements as a "shrine" of music? Also is the hotel still operating or not? One thing you don't address PB is this: the whole Bush economy has been a "house of cards" for many years now. He took a budget surplus & turned it into the worst deficits in the history of the country, & blamed it on the war. We went from $5 TRILLION in national debt to more than double that in seven years, & it will reach $11 TRILLION before Bush leaves office. He also presided over the largest balance of trade deficits ever. Yet everybody was convinced that the economy was rolling along while these incongruous facts piled up? "My friends", it was all a con job done with smoke & mirrors. Any economics major, let alone any economist worth their salt will tell you that these two incongruous realities do not fit. I've heard about the new mega resort. I don't know where it is, but I bet they'll invest a bundle there. About every president makes a tourist pueblo pop up. Liberal advice, SELL NOW! I can beat anyone's deal. Really. Just think of CAL WORTHINGTON AND HIS DOG SPOT! GO SEE CAL-GO SEE CAL-GO SEE CAL! At the moment, Zicatela is all ripped up, as is the adoquin, with the new roads still in the EARLY stages of reparation many people may be turned off by the appearance and access to zicatela. It's a major construction zone at the moment with a lot of dirt and noise for about 50% of its length. Rinconada on the Gee, my loan has a 4.5% interest rate yearly and I have 30 years to get the payment to the bank. This may work out for the better. I wanna sell and repay within 2 years, then rebuild with a new bigger and better loan. Next project, a classy dance hall with fancy restaurant above it, open center atrium to vent the lower level scene, and let the music spread upward. Offices on the third floor and a Dojo up top overlooking the highway and ocean. I just keep seeing the possibilities down here, this economic hoo haa will be all back on track soon enough. An aggressive investor, borrower, seller can do well right now. Just do it. The banks will be wanting to give more loans. Last one in line gets the small Pundits are working on their pre-excuses, pre-explanations and pre-eulogies. Matthew Dowd : A classic reminder from September: Rule One: When a campaign starts attacking the media, things aren't going well. Rule Two: When a campaign says the polls are wrong, things aren't very good. Rule Three: When a campaign says "the only poll that counts is the one on election day" usually means a campaign is about to lose. Now we could probably add a new one: when partisans start saying let the candidate be the candidate, it means things are off course. Fox News: McCain's Brother to Campaign: "Let John McCain be John McCain." Marc Ambinder: The New CBS News / New York Times poll "falls outside the range" of where the race is now, a senior McCain official said That's puerto. (sp)

24357	12	Nan	Re: Exchanging money	RE [B]When buying goods or services that are priced in pesos and paying in USD or CAD in general you won't get as good an exchange rate as you would at a Casa de Cambio or Bank because the merchant needs to get over to the bank or Casa de Cambio to change your dollars too so he will probably protect himself a bit in case the Exchange rate drops before he gets there.[/B] Nan is generally right BUT, some vendors prefer to have greenbacks in their pockets as they are now "very expensive" in the eyes of someone that deals in pesos every day. Some even hoard their greenbacks as a hedge against inflation. Knowing that Dr. Woo's phone number 35 5 54 26 or check the web dentistasmelaque.com You can go online to www.aha-int.com and get a quote from the five major companies in Mexico. 				Hi Karen, Thanks for your interest in supporting local Mexican charities. As Nan said, there are many to choose from. Ours, PATA Manzanillo (www.PATAManzanillo.com) is a sister organization to Cisco's Amigo's in La Manzanilla/Barra/Melaque and focuses on the shared goal of reducing street animals by means of free spay/neuter clinics for pets of low income families AND also street animals. We coordinate with Cisco's Amigos for a mid-March annual clinic that often sees more than 250 animals receive free operations in just 5 days. We have a long list of items you can bring down from the U.S. or Canada that are very helpful to our clinics. I urge you to check our website under The Socialist concept Obama speaks of will be the downfall of the U.S.A. if he's elected. His true colors have been shown. Redistribute the wealth. Sounds like financial affirmative action. Any American should not be so stupid to fall for that con man. Castro deserves to live to see Obama elected. Then he can say: They forgot bourbon anywhere in Mexico. It's too expensive. So, unless you have a big hankering for bourbon, just skip it. We can figure it out on our own, without being taxed even more than the 40% we currently pay on income tax to be given away to unknown lower class people. I speak of ideology. You can't change the countries financial statistics for the better through government control and gifts, monetary or otherwise. You can only change the statistics by spreading a more conservative and a higher educative platform. Just face the facts, many, many people who are Americans will never get above the poverty level. They don't learn the basic study habits necessary to advance in schools, or the basic respect to associate with others whom may have a more lucrative lifestyle. This needs to come from your parents and or good schools with smaller classroom numbers. Too many students equals lack of control in the teaching process We helped this one back into the water after big surf left him high on Playa Melaque.	19

				A few additional comments. In the rainy season the humidity in Melaque is very high. That is, consistently over 75% which is what mold needs. It is much less of a problem (if a problem at all in the dry season). I understand that dropping the relative humidity below 60% for as little as two hours each day will prevent the growth of mold. There are extensive discussions about lens mold on the web. I plan to build a heated cabinet for next season. Heating the air locally is an easier way to drop the relative humidity than trying to use a dehumidifier or air conditioner to dry the home. However, where can I buy a hydrometer

				Your Abbreviated Pundit Round-up by DemFromCT Sat Oct 18, 2008 at 04:13:36 AM PDT Chicago Tribune: This endorsement makes some history for the Chicago Tribune. This is the first time the newspaper has endorsed the Democratic Party's nominee for president. That's the first Dem endorsement in 161 years. And don't miss the part about Sarah Palin: McCain failed in his most important executive decision. Give him credit for choosing a female running mate--but he passed up any number of supremely qualified Republican women who could have served. Having called Obama not ready to lead, McCain chose Alaska Gov. Sarah Palin. His campaign has tried to stage-manage Palin's exposure to the public. But it's clear she is not prepared to step in at a moment's notice. Does anyone know what is going on with Aerotucan? They fly (or used to fly?) from Oaxaca City to Pto. Escondido as well as Huatulco and back. The site says "see Mexicana airlines" Has Mexicana taken over Aerotucan? Anyone have any Has anyone heard anything about Mexicana taking over Aerotucan? The website refers customers to Mexicana, but says that reservations will be honored. Yet, when one goes to Mexicana, they do not list a flight from Oaxaca City to Pto. Escondido. How can we forget the abject failure of Carlos Salinas' mega-tourist-project, the lovely Huatulco. And whatever happened to Ernesto Zedillo's mega development on Baja, with marinas every 50 miles on both sides of peninsula -- enough boat space to empty every marina on the west coast of the U.S.????? there are water aerobic at the far end of the beach (chicken beach) from Sharon. From my experience, and I do not have a law degree from any country, in order to pass on house and property to a specific person, you must first show ownership regardless of nationality and then have a Mexican will stating "who gets what." In the fido commisso method of ownership, known commonly as a bank trust, the owner states specifically in the document "who gets what?" As suggested in other threads, a legal corporation can designate who the "board" members are and those board members can specifically state how the board is to deal with replacing a board member that expires. I might suggest that your presta nombre make a Mexican will designating you as the heir(assuming they do have "ownership" in the first Your Abbreviated Pundit Round-up by DemFromCT Mon Oct 20, 2008 at 04:09:57 AM PDT William Kristol: The people may be vulgar, but they're usually right. well, they prefer Obama, so not always, but usually. Crossing those rugged mountains made me realize why the bus trips take so many hours and I was grateful to have seen the Sierra Madres up close on a crystal-clear day. We passed in-between the highest peaks of he range, only clearing the ridgeline by a few hundred feet, and immediately you could see the OAX airport far off in the distance. I've gone quite a few times, a few days here, a few days there, and I always seem to find new things to experience. I can think of a few things I still want to do now just off the top of my head. When Palin went before the press she was less than inspiring to the people McCain needed to convince. Independents and Undecideds. McCain said that Palin knows more about energy than probably anyone else in the United States of America. He lost a whole bunch of Independents and undecideds with that statement alone. Especially when T. Boone Pickens is on TV every other commercial break talking about energy. From there on it was down hill. More questions were I wonder if I am a real American. 				3 day (actually longer) itinerary for Oaxaca and you can edit after consulting the consultants. 1st day: Arrive and go to your hotel and unload your stuff. Then head for the Zocalo and take a spin around and head for the market about 2 blocks off the Zocalo. This is where a gourmand pipes in to tell you which stall to eat breakfast or lunch but I say it is hard to go wrong at any of them. After eating you check the market out and then head to the Mercado de Artesian and check that out. Lots of art stuff there. Head back to the Zocalo for a beer and people watching for 1/2 hour. Go to the Santo Domingo church and Monte Alban Museum. (Not much of a walk but you are allowed to taxi if you want. You should Oaxaca is fabulous, definitely not to be missed. The ex-convento Santo Domingo - a few blocks from the main square, is one of the most magnificent colonial churches in Mexico and is next door to a great anthropological and historical museum. The zocolo (plaza) is a gem and there are so many cafes and restaurants and shops in the historic center. The Monte Alban pyramid is a short drive from the city and there are many villages that are worth visiting for their crafts, not to mention all the 16th century churches and convents outside of the city. There are many tourist businesses offering guided tours to these places in English. If you speak Spanish, you might consider hiring a taxi for the day to Some cell phones and some plans let you use your phone anywhere, and others just work inside of Puerto and in cities like Oaxaca or Mexico City. Other cell phones work everywhere, even in the country side. Needless to say, the latter are more expensive. If you have an I-Phone or the like, you can use it here to connect with the internet and then use Skype for very cheap long distance calls. John McCain may have some bad ideas(e.g. endless Iraq, offshore drilling), but he won't get most of these through Congress. Obama will get his bad ideas through Congress. The bottom 50% income earners already pay less than 3% of Federal income taxes(the total will be less than Exxon-Mobile pays this year). Obama wants to increase income redistribution even more. I guess if you don't mind a socialist America, which most on this form don't seem to mind, then vote Thankyou everyone We are deffinelty going to Oaxaca. We have a 3 year old in tow.she speaks better spanish than i do.(my wife is from Mexico city) We heard storys of Oaxaca from her sister whose idea of roughing it is a black and white tv. They plan to retire there too...go figure. We will visit Oaxaca for at least three days but heres the new question. Whats our best way Shake it yourself next time, & do us all a favor like the many favors you ask of others who often don't even know you. 			Who's your granddaddy John? "Normally, the story of John McCain's black family -- the ones who are planning to vote for Barack Obama -- might elicit some modest interest in terms of what it says about the complexity of race relations in America. But what's been even more interesting has been how John McCain has responded to the story ever since it surfaced. Initially, back when he first was doing the "Maverick" schtick in the 2000 primaries, he actually denied that the aristocratic Southerners from whom he was descended were slaveholders. But it really became impossible for McCain to deny their existence after a 2000 report in Salon in the course of which reporters showed him In Florida circle hooks are the law now. A circle hook will hook the fish in the corner of it's mouth about 95% of the time making it very easy to remove the hook quickly with far higher released fish survival rates. 				Every hard core fisherman here agrees that you WILL catch more fish with a circle hook but this relates primarily to bottom fishing. You need to relearn a little though as you never set a circle hook, instead you just steadily start reeling. The hook is designed to slide to the side of the fishes mouth and they just hook up easier than a traditional "J" hook. To remove you just grasp the hook with your pliers and turn it upside down and the fish just falls off. As for trolling all IGFA tournaments now require a circle hook. The larger sizes are harder to find and most of my lures still have J hooks on them and I have not incurred the expense to switch them out yet. I will bring a bunch with me and leave some with Nan. Perhaps the only way you could get it is if you get an independent Bell Mobility dealer to retrieve it via their online tools (I'm not sure if they can access lock codes online with Bell anymore) or they will have to call into their dealer hotline and get it, and maybe give it to you. This will open up the phone to the programming menu. Herein lies more challenges. It's likely that a Bell phone will only work on the Bell network. 				The board may have discussed this topic, but I thought I would ask any way. I plan on obtaining my FM3 at the Mexican consulate in Portland before I come down in May or April. I am trying to decide if opening a Mexican bank account will assist in the renewal process. I have read that some immigration offices prefer proof of income through Mexican bank statements, and that if you rely on statements from an American bank, the statements need to be translated. What Did you see the message titled English speaking teenagers? A 14 year old is looking for some friends---maybe your 13 and the 14 year old can meet???

Gail Collins talks about a campaign that's so bad, it's sending telemarketers over the edge: But the tone of this campaign has given some of the Republican faithful, even those who are members of Congress, the impression that questioning the patriotism of large groups of the population is now O.K. [...] For John McCain, the best question now is not whether he's going to lose, but what kind of a country he'd wind up with if he won after a campaign even a telemarketer can't love. David Broder saw that change is in the air in Ohio. Rep. Michele Bachmann (R-MN), if she still has a job in January, tells what she wants to do to fix the financial crisis when she gets Steve, I personally wouldn't get my FM3 until you get here. It will save you one trip to immigration as you have to go there and register your FM3 anyway. Also when you renew they will require you to have everything like an initial application so they can make up a complete file on you. I have renewed in La Paz and Manzanillo and this year I switched to an FM-2 through the Manzanillo office. I haven't had to have any documents translated or apostilled. I don't have a Mexican bank account and haven't had any problems anywhere with statements printed off the internet including my initial application in Puerto Vallarta. I think Steve, DON'T get your FM3 until you get here. Been there done that. Yes it has been discussed on this board before and I didn't listen. You have to "register" your FM3 within 30 days of entering Mexico. All the stuff needed to "register" is exactly what you will need to get your FM3 in the U.S. I WIN for the most times a person has made adjustments to an FM3 in an 9 month period. FIVE TIMES. Correct me if there is someone else who has beat me? 1. FM3 in Seattle 2. "Register" in Manzanillo (full process again) 3. Change of Address (full process again) 4. Status Change- Rentista to Lucrativa (mega-deal) 5. Renewal of FM3 (full process) NOTE: Having a Mexican Bank Account only helped me from I'm not so worried about the SIM business; I have several old phones, some unlocked. Buying a new one isn't that big a deal, and is less trouble than finding a SIM card, etc. I'm more interested in which Mexican providers you use and why, their costs and coverage. I usually drive down so one that covered PE as Coffee Queen, Interesting that you had to submit complete documents with an address change. Last year I changed my address and only provided a copy of Manzanillo only wanted a letter from a bank manager and/or a canceled check to prove the account was really mine. A good idea to bring an original statement I got scolded a few years ago for waiting for my normal renewal date to report an address change - supposed to do it within 30 days. If you come down with a 180 day tourist visa you have plenty of time to get settled into a place you'll stay	41

Remember to set your clock(s) back one hour. We will, more than likely, have a different date than the US and Canada to OH BILL... thank goodness the time is going to be a bit later... one time we had an engineer that just told his guys to show up at seven in the morning and get to work...but there wasn't any light untill just before eight...then the guys would ride in on their bikes...then the day would be done at three...or maybe four...and the other guys on projects around us would be working into the sunset...maybe four hours later...and actually making progress on their projects... OH BILL... i know that i am going to hijack your thread here, but i am so pleased to not be building anymore...my engineer was a fairly large bummer...and he is fairly busy in the area... anybody have any good ideas as to how to trade good advice or warnings	142

We are planning some special tours for January and February and I So far I have only used circle hooks for bottom fishing which is 95% of what I do in Florida. This trip I plan to experiment trolling some circle hook lures; my understanding is that where normally with J hooks I have my lure reels drag kind of tight, with the circle hook lures I will open the bail and set it to clicker only to give the fish a chance to easily eat the bait. I will let you all know how it works. Dryhouse, I know you do a lot of bottom fishing so I will bring you some smaller circles to experiment with. I think you will find your catch rate goes way up. Here is a link to a fishing forum board where they are discussing circle hook trolling http://www.sportfishermen.com/board/f210/trolling-tuna-bali-c-hooks-35979.html Check out these awesome spreader bars. I travel with almost 100 pounds of fishing gear now; I gotta stop looking at this stuff.

24877	12	N2Futur	Tropical Plant Identification	Gail, I have several books on tropical plants, PM me. Elke Chamela would be my personal choice in the Chamela/Perula area. While there is not much of a town at the beach it is clean and tranquil and there are a couple of nice hotels right on the beach. The beach there is just beautiful. Plus it is really close to the Islands just off shore so perfect for a boat trip over to Isla Pajarera or La Isla Cocinas that you can arrange down by El Negrito a really pretty beach in a cove just south of Chamela. Here is a link to an article I wrote a couple of years ago about beaches that has some information http://www.mexicanpacific.com/Article.asp?PT=Costalegre&id=260680 The photo with the cactus is taken from the headland above Negrito and the photo with the log in front is Chamela beach. This link also has some info (in Spanish) Still interested in joining you, any day is fine. I had a donation of children's books for the school kids in Hautulco area given to me. There is about 75-100 books. The books are the size the "golden books" in size. I have called Mexicana about how to bring them down and they say it will cost 100.00 usd. I have the non-profit paper work to prove they are a donation. Can someone help with info on how to get them down with little or no cost....oh the spreader bars have four lures?...or just four attractors?	190

				Another recommendation is to use spectra over mono line (I prefer the Powerpro brand). All my reels will have at least 300 to 500 yards of spectra braided with about 100 yards of mono on top as a shock absorber. Two years ago we landed a 300 pound blue marlin on 30 pound test line off Barra. The spectra braided is so thin that we could have a huge amount of line on the small reel and a lot of line was really necessary when using light tackle to land a huge fish like this. We fought the fish for over 2 hours while I listened to Captain Enrique telling all his buddies in Spanish on the radio that we had a marlin on but there was no way we were landing that big fish on 30 pound test and that tiny reel. We had waves Has anyone seen a increase in prices for beer-food-rent due to the devaluation of the peso against the dollar in the last 30 days??

				The natural gas pipeline from Alaska is a scam. A $40,000,000,000 (billion with a B.) scam. Natural gas lies underneath the ground all over the U.S. of A. Everywhere. You can practically stick a pipe in the ground in Oklahoma and natural gas will come spewing out. Why the hell should we pay $40,000,000,000 to have it piped in from Alaska, the welfare state? <http://www.naturalgas.org/overview/resources.asp> [IMG]http://i286.photobucket.com/albums/l185/marymontanas/Naturalgasreserve_s2.jpg[IMG] Sarah Palin's scam is to have me and you pay her state a huge premium so that she can dole out the money to the people who live there. 				To clarify my point. I was referring to the classic example of the mathematical model of chaos theory; i.e. a butterfly flapping its wings in China can set into motion a series of events leading to a storm thousands of miles away. It's how nature works. Similarly a mortgage crisis in the U.S., which was the proximate cause of the financial crisis which lead to dollars being removed from distant countries etc., finally results in greater poverty and cut backs in public health, clean water and so on in countries like India and Brazil. The Mexican government is optimistic about tourism this year. The thinking is that Americans and Canadians who were planning on going to Europe will choose Mexico
25051	5	Imago	Re: Peso prices in Puerto Esc	Kathy, if you go to Manzanillo on a first class bus, they normally won't let you off the bus until the bus station. 				OK, some chairs, tables and umbrellas on the beach belong to restaurants. In most cases they will let you use them for an unlimited amount of time if you eat and drink at the restaurant. In some restaurants and in some cases they also rent their tables and chairs to people who come with their own coolers full of food etc. That is up to the individual restaurants whether they do that or not. There can be other tables, chairs and umbrellas on the beach that don't belong to restaurants and that are available to rent. Like the tables, umbrellas and chairs on the malecon sides of the beach in Barra for example. I have found that the owners tend not to pro-rate that rent, it is a flat fee per day probably because again...you just talk to the folk near the chairs..."do you speak spanish?"...if you don't, try some english with questions like, "do you speak english?"...they might there will be no law at your level of inquiry...nobody with badges and books of rules... this is very simple,just you and somebody who parked that shade out there...chances are that if you sit there and order some food or drink, the shade is covered (ho ho ho)...by the the food vendors, like the outfit with the stove and the cooler behind you... are probably your chair rent folk... the most possible downside is somebody, who just wandered by, might ask you to give them some money, for sitting under their shade...and at that point you might just get back to

				I hoped we as a country were beyond that...but seems like racism and the evil twin reverse racism are alive and well. And the polls...well...I do not have much faith in the numbers. And the margins for error seem to make them rather "loose opinion samples" rather than legitimate statistical studies. I, for one, will be happy when this ends this coming Tues...regardless of the outcome...and yes, I think OH and FL will be very interesting to watch. If there is a repeat of FL (2000) and OH (2004)...tend to agree that we will need to seek outside help to ensure a "fair election." 25255	12	Nan	Re: Lost Dog in Guaymas	Went out last Thursday with Conan and caught 4 Dorado. We left at 7 and were back at noon. Beautiful clean blue water is less than 2 miles out. I heard from Berna that he came back in to fish close becuase the dorado prefer the dirtier water. He caught a wahoo at El Viejo on a rapala. Another boat came in with 2 sails and 2 dorado. There are lot's of dorado and some sailfish close. The only bad part are the long liners are all over the hot spots again. (Like they ever left).	142

Eight hour long lines in Florida. Voters purged from the rolls in Colorado, Ohio, Florida New York etc etc. In Virginia flyers are distributed that tell Democrats to vote on Wednesday!! Colorado has purged thousands and thousands of eligible voters. John McCain said the registering of Mickey Mouse and Donald duck was the greatest threat to democracy ever. Of course he didn't say that when Mickey and Donald showed up to vote they would have to have their ID. Also what he didn't say was that Democrats are the ones who end up having all the problems voting. The Democrats are the ones who are purged from the rolls. Democrats are the ones who usually end up waiting in lines for hours because the shortage of voting The Republicans are really grasping. It is so ridiculous. The hypocrisy is just unbelievable. What must their constituents think of them? My god, if I was one I would be very angry. Sarah Palin and John McCain are running around calling Obama a socialist and he is going to change the constitution. One "newsperson" was quoting Marx to Joe Biden. At least Biden was on top of it enough to ask if she was joking. Tom Delay was on a TV show spewing his hatred. You should have seen it. Here was one of the leaders of the most corrupt congresses in the history of the United States (this cannot be stated forcefully enough) who was forced to resign by his own party in disgrace and he was calling Barak Hussein And I still haven't received my phone bill for this month, it should have been here 10 days ago. 25278	5	Puerto Bill	Re: Only the Election	I am helping a friend of mine, a long term resident of Puerto, return (fly) back to the states. He has two dogs roughly 30-40 lbs each. We have two dog cages and will have the appropriate paperwork for American customs. Click will fly the dogs to Mexico City and from there they can be transfered to another airline. Yuck. I have wet dreams of going to Huatulco and hoping on Continental and Thanks for correcting my spelling inspector hound. Julie, I will buy you a drink at Jardin Real for the phone number. I need some help finding out if they will ship dogs to the states. So far I only have gossip. The gossip is Yes they do and No I was asked to post it for a friend. He owns the property and wants to rent it out to someone, and it comes as listed above. The phone numbers are for him. Ditto for Mario Cobos. First Class and professional. I have hired him for the following and have been extremely pleased. 1) Fishing expedition 2) Bahias de Huatulco tour (a must) 3) Trip up the coast to the Turtle Reserve. I have never been to the coffee plantation and waterfall but have heard it is fantastic. The crocodiles and turtles are interesting to be sure but plan on spending a whole day to do it properly if leaving from Huatulco. The drive up the coast is interesting with lots to see so don't plan on a rushed trip. Take your time and Planta de la Raya grows on most of the local beaches where there are stingrays. There is a big patch of it at the top of the beach beside Vista Hermosa Hotel. (There was last spring anyway.) I know that it helped my husband a lot when he was stung and they didn't use especially hot water. A doctor friend told me that he once gave a shot of demerol to a stingray victim and it didn't help the pain at all. If I ever get stung I'll be trying the hot water with planta de la raya remedy Two years ago I also was stung on my way into the beach. Could not do the shuffle. I was treated with the Plant. Our hotel boiled it for 30 minutes as hot as you could stand. Held the poultice on the wound for 30 minutes. It worked wonderful All pain gone in 30 minutes. I still have the spot and was told it will be Mainly I was interested in the difference between renting and owning and, if owning, is there an escatura involved. I have searched for a specific name, but I have found nothing. I suspect the problem is that it is a juvenile, and I am simply missing some obvious markings. Hmmm. The attachment did not work, but the photograph is on my blog: http://steveinmexico.blogspot.com/ My padre, Lalo, asked me to research if these are insured. I'm kinda lazy. Maybe one of you tomzappers knows. "Specifically, are they Federally Insured? Is Caja Popular Cihuatlan insured? Is La Huerta Caja Popular insured? What is the nearest branch of an insured Caja Popular? " If anyone has info regarding this it would be most appreciated... They just got new credit cards with the chip. Will they be able to use them??? Have they lengthened the cords so that you are able to put your pin Here is another reason I am not voting for a Republican. Eight years ago George Bush was appointed President. At the time I was bummed that the candidate I supported didn't win but I figured they are all pretty much the same. That's what everybody have been saying for as long as I can remember. That they are all the same. After four years it was pretty obvious that Bush was not doing the kind of job I would expect of a world leader. Now after eight years of Bush it is so painfully obvious just what a bad leader can do. I am so ready to give the Democrats a chance. I am so ready to let somebody who can think run this country. McCain has yet to say what he would do differently than Bush regarding In my experience, credit cards don't skim much off the top when converting CDN$/US$/MEX$. I also noticed prices for the same flight on Mexicana's February that is less than $4000 pesos return for two people with the taxes and everything added in. also, in my previous post the prices I was referring to I saw a solid white heron a couple of days ago behind the house that I had never seen before. Last week I was fishing behind the house using live shrimp for bait and a heron that was almost as tall as I was just stood there about 4 feet from me. I tossed him one of the shrimp which he caught in the air. Then I walked Good Afternoon, You may want to check out the following conversation about the progress of the Dreams Hotel	1003

The interchange at Puente Seco II is taking shape. It connects to the road they have been building north of El Aguacate/Jaluco/Melaque for the last couple of years. The road reaches within 100 yards of highway 80, about 2 miles north of the Pemex. It needs some sort of bridge to connect to Hwy 80, and a small bridge is being built for drainage north of Melaque. My question is - what is the purpose? It does not bypass Cihuatlan, and there is no obvious extension Was this built by Chris Cross? One thing I do know his names not Dave. The interchange at Puente Seco II is nearing completion. It connects to the road they have been building north of El Aguacate/ Jaluco for the past couple of years. The road now ends less than 100 yds from highway 80, about two or three miles north of the Pemex. It needs a bridge at hwy 80, and they are building a little bridge on it north of Melaque. 				The trash talk express is running out of track: "A former Republican Secretary of State and one of John McCain's most prominent supporters offered a stunningly frank and remarkably bleak assessment of Sarah Palin's capacity to handle the presidency should such a scenario arise. Lawrence Eagleburger, who served as Secretary of State under George H.W. 				I am a Canadian living in huatulco for several years, regardless of the fear mongers who like to go on and on about getting ripped off in HUX, i have the following to say. Everywhere in the world there are honest and dishonest people. You can buy and own and sell realestate in HUX virtually hassle free if you know the right people such as lawyers , notaries and builders. Houses are often listed at $200 sq ft but they are much cheaper to build, under $100. Most of the time the best bet is to buy land from Fonatur, get a honest builder to build the house, check out www.buyhuatulco.com, This will get you the best value for your money, Dont believe the fear mongers of the world, if you like HUX and I am a Canadian from calgary alberta, I have read the tomzap site for a couple years now and see many posts on realestate good and bad. I am not a realtor but I live in Huatulco and develop property and build houses here predominantly for Canadian clients. If you follow the rules here and use common sense. realestate purchases or having a home built can be hassle free and profitable. It really annoys me to see negative posts from people who havent had sufficient experience here to be giving advice to anyone I offer this to anyone, whether you are currently considering buying a home or condo in Huatulco or any piece of property, please consult with us first. No charge or committment whatsoever- I dont care if you do any business with us or not, I just dont want to have anyone Where can distilled water be purchased in Melaque?

I don't iron Searched all the major locations in Manzanillo, and in most appliance sections, they have 'demineralized' water for ironing. It is labeled not to be drank. It is not distilled. The only place that had real 'agua demineralizada' was "Guadalajara Pharmacy", across the road from the 'Comercial' It's used for medical I.V. applications. In Melaque, so-called 'distilled' water can be bought where they sell I agree with amigodehuatulco on every thing except for one Yes you can build a beautiful home in Huatulco and yes you do need good a good attorney and builder and these can be found if you do your homework the same as in any place but if you want a home with nice finishes I doubt if you can get it done for under 100.00 per sq. ft. at least not the kind I have seen on a good custom "Owning Property in a Foreign Trust requires you to file Form 3520 when the trust is established and 3520A each year thereafter." http://www.glazerfinancial.com/2008.08.bulletin.html AND "Foreign Trust (Fideicomiso) Owning property if it is residential real property in a fideicomiso (Mexican Trust) requires you to file Form 3520 when the trust is established and Form 3520A each year thereafter (also applies if you are a beneficiary or creator of any foreign trust). 				Hello! I'm Ricky Campbell. You are invited to my opening tonight (Monday) at Ricky's Restaurant. Come on down and check the place out! Tuesday night is the USA Election Night and we are offering several specials, including T-Bone at $80 pesos (includes salad and dessert). In the spirit of election participate in the electoral count. We're having a contest and the person that comes the closest to the final electoral vote will receive a complimentary dinner along with 2 drinks of your choice on your next visit. We are installing TVs so while you dine and enjoy, you can keep up with the counting process. Also a reminder that Wednesday is our first Ladies' Night of the season. Ladies eat all you want, drink Your Abbreviated Pundit Round-up by DemFromCT It's pundit time!! The pressure's on... only one day to go! Paul Krugman: You might think, perhaps hope, that Republicans will engage in some soul-searching, that they'll ask themselves whether and how they lost touch with the national mainstream. But my prediction is that this won't happen any time soon. Instead, the Republican rump, the party that's left after the election, will be the party that attends Sarah Palin's rallies, where crowds chant "Vote McCain, not Hussein!" William Kristol: Hey, what if McCain wins? Let me show my compassionate side and worry about you liberals. We grown-ups will be just fine (pass the Jack Daniels.) Sky News: Mr Audette told Sky News: "We wanted to know if she knows anything They do not have email at Mayto Beach hotel. Only a cell phone. New Manager: Elba Valencia 01-333-177-2184 reservations: ask for Erica You will be asked to "If the polls are correct, we are in the process of electing a 'conman' president". Lawrence Eagleburger former secretary of state. He must of read my posts.. It's nice to agree with proven intelligence. Sorta offsets the agreeing with absolute NPR: "Are you entirely comfortable with Sarah Palin as the Vice President of the United States? That she would be ready to take over in a crisis if she should, be called up to do so." Eagleburger: "That's a very good question. I'm being facetious here. Look, I don't.. Of course not. I don't think at the moment she's Pablo, I don't have any personal experience of loss, because I've never left the house vacant for more than a couple of days. However, I have heard tales of folks who have lost refrigerators and couches for having left their homes vacant No, Manchas is still missing. Humberto went looking for him yesterday and there I can also recommend Alejandro Muñoz of Pinturas y Pintores though I'd no idea he speaks a word of English - go figure. He is marvelous at mixing colours, got the colours for my house just perfect, and they do a very good job of painting too. His pricing is also very competitive, his price was the best of the quotes I received for Casa de Marco and that using very good quality paint like we used ANSWER: John McCain supports letting underinspected Mexican truckers cross over and run freely on american highways. The Counterpunch article goes on to make a pretty strong case that McCain sang for his captors while others in the same hotel did not. It was NOT a torture facility and other inmates doubted McCain's story. If this story was about John Kerry, the right wing would have Looking forward to being there Ricky but not until Jan. so keep up the good work. Loved spending time there last year with the fine live entertainment you For an Alarm or any kind of security system for your home, bungalow or hotels I highly recommend "Seguridad Turistica Hotelera. They use the most modern systems of Security, their prices are definitely the best and they do an excellent job at installing Alarm systems. The name of the Director of Security is Jesús Huerta Aguilar his phone number is Cel 044-315-100-1001or 315-355-3510 Well, we didn't quite get finished by November 1 as planned but we have completed our renovations and are now re-open at our usual location across the street from the Jardin, next door to the Crystal Ice Factory, kater corner from the ATMs in Barra de Navidad. We are still on low season hours you can find one of us there between 10:00 am and 2:00 pm Monday - Saturday. Wouldn't miss it! Hi Tom: I was in Huatulco the last 2 weeks. Amongst doing many other things I brought some meds to Flor at Nuevo Amanecer. Walking back to the main town area I saw an office for AA with a meeting schedule. It is at 1303 Jazmin, at the Maybe he's gonna 'con' the world. Sounds like an average plan. Wow Nan ,, Love the new look. Can't wait to see it for myself, will be down between Christmas and New Years..I hear through the grape vine that you have purchased new saddles etc for the horses..Looking forward to taking a ride in a I have enjoyed your restaurant and you will be missed. Good luck to both of you.

				Lets face it. There was a great show but no election. Obama was prechosen as he was seen attending Bilderberger meetings over a year ago. Sen McCain doesnt look well has had and has cancer and had no chance of winning. Bush made sure who would win. Its called social engineering. The latest news is that there are Russian, Chinese, German, Korean troops in the USA along with 2000 the music was nice was playing Joaquin Arciniaga a Mexican piano Man from Chiuatlán he play every gender blues , romantic, dancing etc. he will be playing I will make sure to have plenty of coffee beans in stock. I have already sold more than half of the 90 kilos I went up for a couple of weeks ago so will need to be making another stock up trip in a couple of weeks. We ran out of coffee in December last year but that was due to an inventory shortage in Cuizalapa so I am taking care this year so that won't happen again. The good news is that more of the local citizens in the Cuizalapa area are now active in the Coffee Eric, Maybe LT will help you pay the $500 bet with me. 25747	12	Atascadero Sally	Re: Sonoyta Hotels?	Thanks for all the helpful information. We usually come down through Nogales, so thought we'd like to try a different route. We've stayed in Gila Bend before but It is my understanding that the flights out of Puerto and Huatulco cannot accept dogs in cargo (because of the size of the jets). I checked this with both Mexicana and Continental when we brought our dogs in to Mexico in August.	488

The place is very Mexican but inexpensive. For gringos I can only suggest one room that has a private entrance. The other 8 rooms are interior and might get noisy if a crowd shows up. Very nice family is managing this place Anyway ... this one has kitchen, bath, two double beds and cable TV and a private street entrance for $2500 pesos a month. Two more interior rooms have kitchen, two beds, bath and I had high hopes for Jesse too, but he didn't do much. I have the same hopes for Obama, but am expecting to be disappointed again. We need a third party along the lines of what Ron Paul was talking about. Cut my property and income taxes If you're "not into the whole resort thing", why are you staying there when there are so many superior options to choose from? Just curious.	1831

I would post a link to their schedule, but the second division website has been down for maintenance for about 2 months now. Last year they played their games at noon I forgot one thing, if you look at the 3rd Division schedule the Picudos of Manzanillo are called Conejos de Tuxpan. This league and the two above it 2nd Division and Primera are leagues of ascension meaning the champions move up to the next level of play. It doesn't sound likely There is a lot of difference in the efficiency of digital cameras. Some tend to use much less battery per shot. Rechargeable batteries (normally) start off with about a 15% less voltage charge than non rechargeable batteries and quickly get down to the minimum voltage that the camera needs to operate. And, rechargeable batteries tend to looses their charge quickly when not in use. With A transformer will not convert the frequency from 50Hz to 60 Hz. The equipment to do that is not practical. But Mexico does have 60 Hz power anyway. When I was an electrician, we found that certain areas were much more prone to lightning damage. 				Greetings, My gf and i are planning to enter mexico through nuevo laredo by bus and go on through to Oaxaca to travel around for 2 weeks...over to the coast and perhaps head to Yucatan?....does anyone have advice and/or the current issues of violence in the border towns? Are the problems only up north? Any insight on small coastal towns to explore and hang a hammock at night will be appreciated too. I have been to mexico several times...only up north though. It is When we applied for and received our FM3'S last December in the U.S. we also received and paid for a 1 year Mexico Visa that was adhered to the inside of our U.S. passport. Do we need to get one of these in the U.S. every year? I have never heard anyone mention this before. We go back and forth to Mexico There is nothing in my passport besides an entry stamp on the 20th of December 2004. Just a quick question. Did you register your FM3 at the local Just heard from friends who drove the Gulf route within the past 4 days. They said the roads were in the worst shape they'd ever seen. Lots of work going on and very heavy truck traffic. Very badly potholed until 25 miles or so before the Santa Cruz bypass. I like the Gulf route but am seriously considering the Monterrey/Matehuala/Acapulco way unless good reports come in before the end of Dec. concerning repair completions. I've used Mexpro for the past few years with no problems. The Los Indio crossing out of Harlingen is quick and a straight I believe it's about $45 for the permit and it's good as long as you keep your visa current. They will use your credit card for the bond otherwise it's about $400

				It is only slightly over an hour downtown to downtown via the toll road, excellent road, though can get a bit congested at the Manzanillo end. If you take the Libre, it is slower, tighter curves, and must go through Armenia, and several other small villages. Pay attention to the topos and Stop lights. Road is good shape with a lot resurfaced. There are interesting brickyards just off the toll road, To reinforce some of the earlier comments, you need to make sure you use appropriate materials. The typical IKEA construction is high density particle board which does not handle the humidity or bugs well as all. Our condo used typical North American modular cabinets and they disintegrated in about 5-10 years. Avoid typical North American cabinet construction (plywoods and light framing wood) for this reason. The locals know which woods will survive and some of the wood available are quite stunning, both light and dark. The local woodworkers often get a raw log, cut and slice to requirements, but need some time for curing and drying. Usually the body of the lower cabinets are actually Hotel Catedral has also been our choice for the past five years. Better if it is not on a week-end when access is more difficult.

Much has been made about Sarah Palin not being able to name the countries in the North American Free Trade Agreement and that she thought that Africa was a country. It is a bit hard to believe that she didn't know and I understand how McCain's people leaked this to make her look bad because they are trying to lay blame on somebody other than themselves for the shitty campaign. He and his wife, Bernardine Dohrn spoke about the relationship with Obama and about the Vietnam protests and about 1968 and what was going on at the time when the Weather Underground were doing what they were doing. He and Dorn put it all in context. He talked about what they were doing when they had a Miguel, it sounds like the gulf route is as bad as it has been in a long time. 			It is my opinion that the only reason that sanity finally prevailed over the chicken hawks in the 70's, was because main stream American mothers (and some of their husbands) finally joined the peace protesters & said "ENOUGH". Their first son went to Viet Nam & got killed. Then the second one went & endured the same fate. When they came for the baby, the only living heir to the family name, mom's everywhere said, "NO MAS"! Like Iraq today, it was a war we were never going to win in the classical sense of wars fought previously. Bush ("mission accomplished") & many of the neocons don't understand these subtle distinctions. In today's world you take out a leader like Hussein covertly, or you go in & surgically remove him, & get the hell out. You DON'T occupy a country

It will, of course, be nothing in comparison with that pesky Jarhead, but I do the best I can. After my arrival at HUX, and after waiting in line 40 minutes, I walked down the road to wait for the bus to Puerto. There was a lot of activity and several cabs offered to take me there for 500 pesos. I talked with a couple of locals who were waiting there as well and they said they were going to Pochutla on the Combi. They said a bus left every half hour from there to Puerto, but when I saw the Combi I decided to wait. 26452	6	Karmicgoddess	Re: Beautiful Rooms with a vi	Who is teaching the class? Señor Sushi is just to the south of El Fogón. I haven't eaten there, but agree that Sendai Sushi on the side street next to Office Max is a good place to eat. I would also recommend El Cabaña del Mono which is 2 blocks south of Commercial. Turn left at the Norco bicycle shop (bright yellow) and it is on the right hand side. If you want a very nice meal, I would highly recommend the Portofino. It is on the right hand side before you get to the entrance to Las Brisas. Also if your friends haven't been here before, or even if they have, take them to La K'Melia. It is an upscale Botanero that is about halfway between Santiago and the entrance to Las Hadas. Good music, good food and plenty to Not complete, but controlled chaos. A lot of their guests walk by my house on their 4 or 5 block trek to the beach. Their guests for the most part appear to be comprised mainly of national tourism who come in large happy family groups. They seem to get some buses on long weekends from time to time and a young football (soccer) team come quite often. For this reason you may find that unlike a lot of the all inclusive resorts that are mainly occupied by foreign tourists in the winter their menu may cater more to national than foreign tastes - but I could not say that for sure never	2089
26480	12	24dsurf	Re: TOMZAP BROKEN NO T	Good evening Julie, I was referring to the "military" types in the boat which I believe are called "army" in Mexico when we might want to call them "navy." I don't know if "natural predators" are a problem, i.e., sharks, etc., but I surmised that they would at least "give chase" if something came too close to Luis while in the water. Now the real problem is that MAN is the "natural predator" because when we were in Huatulco for his second attempt WE literally ran into a HUGE manta ray with a wing span of what seemed like 15 to 20 feet across. (I have photos of the tips sticking out of the water.) Undoubtedly, WE injured it with our boat and 200 horse motor which literally came out of the water. 26481	12	Nan	Re: Cabo blanco Mexico Hote	I go to Mexico for various reasons, some of which are unknown to me, but the three biggest reasons are language, culture, and food. My primary purpose in going to Mexico is to work on the language. To do this I talk to as many people as possible and I share in their culture in the process. To travel this way is not glamorous by any means, and I have to endure a bit of discomfort to achieve my objectives. I stay in budget hotels and I look for interesting places to eat that are not directly connected to the tourist areas. By the same token I like comfort, and I like familiarity like everyone else and so I tried to sample a couple of the restaurants mentioned on this site. The first place I tried was Las Tugas. 				What does it take to be a "pundent" anyway as McCain once referred to these folks? Isn't it really much more simple? The majority of Americans fear far left socialistic politics... but not as much as those crazed two faced evangelical zealots that have controlled the republican party for the last decade plus. What happened to the Barry Goldwater conservatives; the idea of smaller federal government, with most decisions being made at the local level where they are understood best? McCain gave lip service at best to the notion of less pork & no more earmarks. But what the people saw was a republican party on a drunken spending binge the likes of which this country had never seen before. Now we are flying into P.V. tomorrow and hope to stop into the Walmart for some quick items before driving to Barra. Is the walmart close, or is there another store for a few groceries, pops etc? 26604	12	danpatman	Re: Thursday morning parade	The one in Barra was good too, by my count there were at least 8 schools taking part. It caused a bit of havoc with the traffic but hey it was all good fun. When we talk about changes in Mexico we talk about growth, and usually it has to do with changes in the landscape, but there are also demographic changes taking place. After five nights in Puerto I decided to give Huatulco a try and headed for La Crucecita on the Sur line. The driver was going pretty fast around some of those curves for some reason. No one said anything. I first went to La Crucecita around ten years ago before it had lost it's innocence. At that time things were fairly calm and most of the people looked like they were from the area though there were a few from el DF as well. I returned a few years later and I noticed a lot of changes and I made my first trip to PE. Returning this time I I just got an email from a friend here on Vancouver Island who is retiring March '09. She, hubby and 8 year old grandson are wanting to come to Melaque for a 3 month stay Dec 15/09 - March 15/10. They have never been down before (we're coming down for the first time Jan '09). They have asked me to make some inquiries about finding a 2 bedroom with kitchen accommodation within walking distance to beach. They will be on a retirement budget so if prices are a bit high and a 1 bedroom is set up the right way, they would look at that as well. They are also asking about an english speaking or private school for their grandson, I've been to Dr. Laura for 7 years. In my opinion she's an excellent dentist. She's done restorations, crowns, root canal and cleanings and I've been very happy with her work. She's very clean, professional and I have no complaints. She did mention to me that a couple came in for a cleaning and their teeth were so dirty and full of plaque that the only way she could get it off was by scraping. She said she kept asking if it was hurting and they said no. Also their gums were receded so the nerves were exposed. Perhaps this was Happy and his wife.	283

I have taken Primera Plus from Guadalajara to Barra a couple times and I do agree they are great buses. If you are traveling light Esmeralda's suggestion about the pedestrian overpass is a great one. I [i]think[/i] the last time I took a taxi from PVR to the Central Camionera it was about $120 pesos but it might have been 80 pesos too - not too sure on that. I was overburdened with luggage (as usual) so used the taxis inside the airport parking lot but I don't remember which fee I paid. In Las Peñas, Michoacan I have a 1984 GMC 3500 series (ONE TON) with single rear wheels. It is a diesel. A 12,400 dollar Goodwrench engine fuel pump, injectors, etc was installed in 2004 and they have 31,000 miles on them. A new transmission (automatic) was installed in 2005 and it has 24,000 miles. A brand new Delco starter was installed and has maybe 200 miles on it. The truck has a nine-foot "Servis Body" meaning a utility body with locking doors. ++++++ Whomever wishes it may take possession (Crystal clear title and Calif. registration), for the price (and effort) of nationalizing it. When the paperwork clears, and my $1,500 USD seems pretty pricey for nationalization and you may find that you can do the truck for less than that. I did my 1989 Mazda MX-6 for about $280 USD plus plate fees (about $600 MN) in 2001 and more recently my 1991 Jeep Sahara through Woodward Rojas in Manzanillo for under $500 USD - it came to about $4600 pesos plus the plate fees which had gone up to about $900 MN by then. 				The Minnesota Senatorial race is heating up. Democrat Al Franken and Republican Norm Coleman are in a recount race to the bitter end and as usual the Democrat seems to be getting the short end of the stick. At least that is what I have been finding. Nowhere can I find that the Norm Coleman campaign has found any irregularities but the Al Franken campaign seems to be turning up strange happenings all over the place. I don't know who will win this race. It is very very close. With over 2,850,000 votes cast http://www.cnn.com/ELECTION/2008/results/main.results/#S there is only about a 200 vote difference. The cache of cannabis is about 2,700 years old and was clearly "cultivated for psychoactive purposes," rather than as fibre for clothing or as food, says a research paper in the Journal of Experimental Botany. The 789 grams of dried cannabis was buried alongside a light-haired, blue-eyed Caucasian man, likely a shaman of the Gushi culture, near Turpan in northwestern China. The extremely dry conditions and alkaline soil acted as preservatives, allowing a team of scientists to carefully analyze the stash, which still looked green though it had lost its Depends where you live, how close to the tele?. 				What happens when the federal govt is 'run like a business'... WASHINGTON — The Bush administration backed off proposed crackdowns on no-money-down, interest-only mortgages years before the economy collapsed, buckling to pressure from some of the same banks that have now failed. It ignored remarkably prescient warnings that foretold the financial meltdown, according to an Associated Press review of regulatory documents. "Expect fallout, expect foreclosures, expect horror stories," California mortgage lender Paris Welch wrote to U.S. regulators in January 2006, about one year before the housing implosion cost her a job. Bowing to aggressive lobbying _ along with assurances from banks that the troubled mortgages were OK _ regulators delayed action for ... where does uranus fit in?

The Howard -- I thought of you this weekend. I was walking through the park and saw a hawk land in a tall oak tree -- and then a second smaller hawk. That was unusual in itself. I had my small Nikon (with a 10X zoom) with me. The larger hawk was almost right above me. As I zoomed in to identify it, I took two quick shots. The crows then started to show up. I thought I was going to get a great mobbing scene, but the hawks were smart and took off through the branches of the oaks -- confounding the crows. It was a great experience. But it was far too

We left Alberta on the 16 October only to loose the awning off our motor home in Southern Alberta, it was blowing a howling gale and there was the awning passing us on the freeway!!!!!!Oh well if that was to be the only misadventure, we could deal with it. We arrived in Yuma and ordered a new awning which took 10 days to arrive from Indiana, may have been quicker to go to Indiana and pick it up. Any ways we had a great time with friends and said our goodbyes to them all on the 1st November, heading out on the final leg of our road trip to Huatulco. 				20-30 percent of all 2-3 week visitors have some type of dysentery. Over 50% of all full time people living in Mexico have E.Hystolica an ameoba in their system. 1 spore can release like 30,000 more. E.Hytsolica is one of the most common and is deadly. It can live in your system for years and years and then be very dangerous when your system becomes ill or your immunity is low or you take some steroid like cortisone, it can flourish and become debilitating. Once it is in your system the 2-3 month pills will not rid your system of them. The pills only work to keep them away if you do not have them (phophylactic) so the odds are you have them and they are just subsidizing the naseau. There are two stages, Did you know 5 people in the cyclist race were run over at different various locations in Puerto area. All the way from Puebla and no other reports of run overs. Asimismo, dio a conocer que para el 2009 se invertirán 276 millones de pesos en el tramo Barranca Larga-Ventanilla Bar Aquí and Utopia - both in front of the Arco Iris on Zicatela are my favorite watering holes on Zicatela. Bar Aquí had live music. The Aquario, also on Zicatela, is good for eating. Los Tios is good for the view, especially of surfers at I posted this same thing on TA so whichever you read first, plus, readers of both forums can get the info: Freestyle it. At most of those beaches, there will be one standout place that spent a bit more money/got more beer company money than another but that doesn't mean it is the best. They all have names but I've never cared to learn them. Happy hours are more so for the few nightclubs in town to get in patrons earlier on in the evening. Normally there will be a special menu serving cocktails 2 for 1 for around $35-$50 pesos. If you have found you have never liked seafood, give it another try in Puerto Escondido. I looked into taking Spanish lessons with Paco Barriente whose name I got off this site. I booked rooms four months ago but was having difficulty reconfirming my reservation due to my lack of Spanish. The reason for the post is to let people know what a great guy Paco is. I e-mailed him and asked him for a big favor. Would he please phone the hotel and ensure that the reservation and rooms were confirmed and I would gladly pay for the call and his time. I've said this before and it probably does nothing but somebody told many years ago to eat an onion when you get to where you are going. I don't necessarily eat a whole onion but I do make a veggie salad with lots of onions on it and make sure I wash the ingredients well and I don't seem to get sick and it tastes good. As I said it probably doesn't do anything to help but who knows? Hell, eat some yogurt before you go too. It tastes good as well. 				Franken's lead down to 10 votes. Gonna be a real unhappy loser in this one. Meanwhile... Yesterday, a National Journal report put Palin's total "accessory" and clothing tab at $180,000. Today a report put her total styling bill for hair and makeup at a whopping $110,000. It gets better -- Palin's "traveling makeup artist" was paid roughly $32,000 a month for the final two months of the campaign. Palin's "traveling makeup artist" raked in $68,400 and her hair stylist netted more than $42,000 -- for roughly two months of work. To put that in perspective, makeup for Palin alone would have cost $410,400 if spread out over an entire year, and her hair -- $252,000. The highway is a mess but passable, watchout for possible crumbling shoulders as the dropoffs can be more than 8 feet deep in places. Had carnitas at Taco Loco on Av Oaxaca this morning and I can highly recommend them. The tasty little critters were delicious with the supplied salsa. 				*See Date • Fecha: December 04, 2008 06:55PM above After rereading what the guy wrote in the Rolling Stone article I want to add that the economic cluster fukk is the biggest problem facing this country (U.S.A.) as far as infrastructure, the way that the country is working, is concerned. The absence of a "unifying national idea" is a philosophical or ideological void as opposed to a void of how the way the country is working. The economic mess is going to be horribly difficult to solve. Without getting into the how and why and when, the point is that the economic problem will go down as the biggest problem that the Bush administration has left us with.
